FROM JUNE 1, COUGH SYRUPS CAN'T BE EXPORTED WITHOUT QUALITY CHECKS

The move came after three alerts were issued by the World Health Organization in seven months on contaminated India-made cough syrups

Prime Minister Narendra Modi with his Australian counterpart Anthony Albanese at an Indian diaspora event in Sydney on Tuesday | PTI

MODI ROCKS SYDNEY

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday got a roaring reception from the Indian diaspora in Sydney at the Qudos Bank Arena, with his Australian counterpart Anthony Albanese observing that the welcome was way bigger than that for even American rock star Bruce Springsteen who performed at the same venue in 2017. Albanese called Modi "the boss", a sobriquet coined by fans to honour the 73-year-old Springsteen.

In his address, Modi said the strongest foundations of India-Australia relations are mutual trust and respect, adding the real reason behind this is the Indian diaspora. "We hope the bilateral trade between the two sides will more than double in the next five years" after the inking of the Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement last year, he said.

Both PMs unveiled the foundation stone for a 'Little India' Gateway to be built at Harris Park in Parramatta, Western Sydney, which is home to a large Indian community.

Besides, a new Indian Consulate will be opened in Brisbane, Modi announced. India has a High Commission in Canberra and consulates in Melbourne and Perth.

"Our cricket relations completed 75 years. Last year when Shane Warne passed away millions of Indians mourned the loss. Our lifestyles may differ, but Yoga now connects us. We have been friends for a long time because of cricket. Tennis and films are now connecting us. We may prepare food in different ways, but Masterchef has brought us together," Modi remarked.

Modi had an array of meetings during the day, including one with leading Australian industrialist Dr Andrew Forrest, Executive Chairman and Founder of Fortescue Metals Group. The group has plans to work with Indian companies in the field of green hydrogen.

India is Australia's sixth-largest trading partner. The two-way exchange of goods and services was valued at Australian $46.5 billion, up from $31 billion last year.

A new Centre for Australia-India relations is expected to build business engagement, promote policy dialogue, deepen cultural understanding and harness the energy and talent of the Indian diaspora.

'World's biggest, youngest talent factory is India'

"India does not lack capability or resources. India has made record exports even in the most challenging times. Today, the country which has the world's biggest and youngest talent factory is...India," he asserted amid chants of 'Modi, Modi'

Govt: Won't allow moral policing, saffronisation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Tuesday pulled up high-ranking police officers for their style of functioning under the previous BJP government and asked them to work impartially.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said that his government will put an end to moral policing in the state. When reporters drew his attention to increasing incidents of moral policing in the coastal region, the CM said, "No moral policing henceforth. We will put an end to it."

At a meeting with top police officers, Shivakumar warned them that his government will not let the officers "saffronise" the force.

The DyCM is said to have expressed displeasure at them for not booking a case against those who had allegedly stated that "Siddaramaiah should be finished like how Tipu Sultan was killed."

At the closed-door meeting, which was attended by in-charge DG & IGP Alok Mohan and several officers, Shivakumar reportedly took strong objection to some policemen donning saffron attire in Mangaluru, Vijayapura and Bagalkot during celebration of a festival under the BJP regime.

Shivakumar warned the officers that they should not allow such activities in the department.

Slow start to note exchange

No panic rush to dispose of ₹2,000 notes; complaints of banks demanding ID proof

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE first day of exchanging ₹2,000 currency notes passed off largely peacefully as it was business as usual in most banks and there were no large crowds as seen in the aftermath of the 2016 demonetisation.

Note exchange was a low-key affair in Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala, Odisha and Telangana, where people chose not to rush to banks to replace ₹2,000 notes with lower denomination notes. In Delhi, Chennai, Hyderabad and Vijayawada, residents tried to dispose of the pink notes at petrol pumps, supermarkets and other business establishments.

While no major untoward incident was reported from any state, Delhi, Chennai and Bhubaneswar reported isolated incidents of confusion and chaos in some bank branches.

At some banks in Delhi, heated arguments took place between customers and bank staff who allegedly refused to accept notes without identity proof despite the government's clarification that no document is required to exchange notes.

Some Chennai banks also demanded Aadhaar card while others wanted to know the mobile numbers of those who came with ₹2,000 notes. The city also recorded high activity with some bank branches collecting ₹2,000 notes worth over ₹60 lakh on Tuesday.

A few Bhubaneswar banks, too, insisted on identity documents such as Aadhaar card along with the requisition slip to deposit and exchange notes.

There were widespread complaints of petrol pumps refusing to accept high-value notes.

Rain deaths: Siddu warns DCs, CEOs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said 52 people died in rain-related incidents in the last two-and-a-half months in Karnataka.

The CM held a meeting with officials of the Agriculture Department and Disaster Management Authority here. Deputy commissioners and chief executive officers of zilla panchayats participated in the meeting through video conference.

Siddaramaiah instructed the DCs and CEOs to respond to the people's problems without any delay during monsoon.

Fifty-two deaths have been reported across the state since March. Of them, 34 due to lightning, three because of treefall, seven in wall collapse, five in flash floods and three due to electrocution. Besides, 338 cattle died, 814 houses were damaged and standing crops on 20,000 hectares destroyed.

Speaking to reporters after the meeting, Siddaramaiah said the state experienced 10% above normal pre-monsoon showers so far this year. "Step out of your offices and respond to people's problems. If you do not work effectively, face action. This is not just an instruction, but a warning. Many deputy commissioners have not visited taluk centres in their respective districts. This should not happen henceforth," he said.

BBMP WAKES UP AFTER SUNDAY DEATHS

Set to expedite repair work of 195-km SWD network at Rs 1,900 cr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BBMP workers cleaned the clogged underground drainage at Tagore Circle in Bengaluru on Tuesday | SHASHIDHAR BYRAPPA

FACING brickbats over flooding and two rain-related deaths on Sunday, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) is pulling up its socks and expediting repair works on its 195-km stormwater drain network as well as taking up new projects, worth Rs 1,900 crore in total.

Palike Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath said the repair work was taken up under various government grants in 2022 and so far, 40 per cent has been completed.

According to SWD department officials, the civic body had identified 859.9 km of stormwater drain network in Bengaluru and has been taking up new and repair works from 2006 under various government grants.

The Palike first repaired 75 km of its SWD network through its fund. From 2006 to 2016, 102 km was developed with funds under the Jawaharlal Nehru National Urban Renewal Mission and its own funds. Between 2016 and 2018, 212 km of repair work was taken up under the CM's Nagarothana grants. Similarly, between 2018 and 2021, 102 km of repair work was taken up under CM's Nava Nagarothana funds.

Following the floods last year, the Bommai government decided to take up 195 km of SWD repair work and funds under various schemes as well as emergency grant of additional Rs 313 crore was released.

"Last time, due to heavy rains in August, Sai Layout and Nagappa Layout in KR Puram as well as Manyata Tech Park in Hebbal among other areas were flooded. After the SWD repair work completed, flooding will be mitigated as drains will carry excess run-off to lakes and valleys," said an official.

Palike to resume SWD encroachment drive

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@Bengaluru

FOLLOWING heavy rain and flooding in the city on Sunday and Monday, the BBMP will resume the stormwater drain encroachment removal drive, which was halted due to the Assembly elections. The revenue department has already passed 68 orders for eviction of encroachers.

A senior BBMP official said a majority of the orders are for KR Puram and Mahadevapura constituencies.

"The encroachment removal drive was being carried on and off due to court cases. The district election officer and BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath had instructed stopping the drive in April as it would have resulted in voters moving from the address and causing confusion. Now that the elections are over, we are starting the drive," said an officer.

"We have been instructed to be ready with men and machinery. On Wednesday morning, we will be given a list and the locations," said Mahadevapura Zone chief engineer M Lokesh.

However, residents impacted by floods expressed doubt about BBMP's commitment to the drive. "Last time, a person was washed away during the rain and hundreds of homes were flooded. On Sunday, two rain-related deaths were reported. The Palike action is only a knee-jerk reaction. They will evict small-time violators and spare the rich and influential. Neglect by both the BBMP and local MLA has ruined the infrastructure," said Ashok Mruthyunjaya, AAP Mahadevapura president.

Metro waiting time to come down to 3-3.5 mins

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

COMMUTERS' waiting time for trains on Purple Line and Green Line and their extension lines will get reduced to 3-3.5 minutes in future when Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) receives the much-delayed 36 new train sets in phases.

The Kolkata-based Titagarh Wagon Limited (TWL) will supply 90 percent of them following its partnership with the Chinese firm CRRC Corporation Limited, whose subsidiary firm bagged the initial contract.

Kolkata-based Titagarh Wagon Limited (TWL) will supply 90% of coaches and other equipment, following its partnership with Chinese firm CRRC Corporation Limited, whose subsidiary bagged the initial contract.

CRRC will supply two prototype train sets, which will be used for testing purposes. The first one will be sent by August end or early September, sources said. The Rs 1,578-crore contract for 216 coaches was signed in December 2019 by CRCC with its subsidiary Nanjing Puzhen Co. Ltd supposed to supply them.

Twenty-one of these six-car sets are Distance to Go (DTG) coaches which can be tracked through circuits, while 15 will be Communication-Based Train Control (CBTC) sets that rely on radio-based communication.

"The first prototype DTG train set will be supplied by CRRC for testing and trial runs in November. The rest will be provided by TWL after March 2024.

Two train sets will be delivered each month. We are still running trains with a 4.5-minute frequency during peak hours in the morning and evening on the Purple Line and its extension (Baiyappanahalli and Kengeri) and a 5-minute frequency on the Green Line and its extension (Nagasandra and Silk Institute). Induction of these coaches will reduce the gap between trains to three minutes on the extended Purple Line and its complete stretch (Whitefield Adugodi and Challaghatta) and 3.5 minutes on the Green Line and its extension," a source said.

In all, 15 CBTC train sets will be on RV Road-Bommasandra Line (Reach 5), which is expected to be launched by this December. "After delivery of the first train set, two sets each will be supplied in the next seven months. Supply of DTG will begin after this," he said.

BDA sees high demand for its Rs 1 crore flats

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU Development Authority's first housing project in which a flat is priced slightly above Rs 1 crore is witnessing a good demand from the public. A total of 120 3BHK flats at Chandra Layout in Nagarbhavi are up for grabs, with a portion of them set aside for those who have expressed interest in booking it in bulk for employees.

A senior BDA official said the sale of flats commenced from April 1. "Each flat is priced at a base rate of Rs 1.04 crore, in addition to Rs 2.5 lakh for car parking and around Rs 1.5 lakh pro rata charges for water and sanitary connections." All the flats are in a ten-storey tower with 12 flats on each floor.

"We have already sold 19 out of 84 flats planned for individual buyers. Apart from that, Canara Bank has booked 12 flats for its staffers, which we classify as bulk booking. Two other parties have expressed interest in similar bulk purchases," he said. "Overall, 25 per cent of flats have been sold. Inquiries are pouring in daily and we expect to complete selling the whole lot shortly," he added.

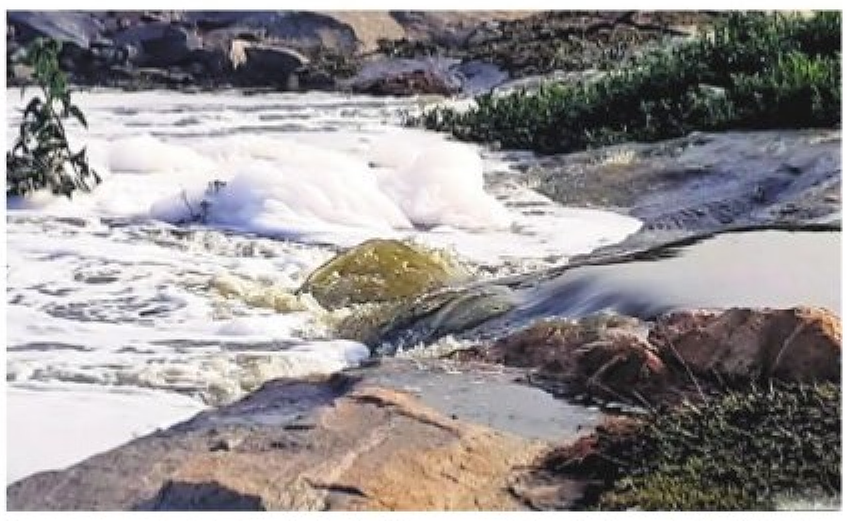
With the housing project located within 1 km of the Nayandahalli Metro station and adjacent to Outer Ring Road, connectivity is proving to be a big plus point, another official said. "The Durga Parameshwari temple is located opposite the apartment. Three parks are also at close quarters," another official said.

A BDA engineer in-charge said, "Along with usual amenities, this project has an in-house gym and indoor recreation club. Electric Vehicle charging points are also provided in the parking space. A 30-feet space surrounding the apartment, built in line with fire safety norms, makes for excellent walking space."

These flats cost double of the earlier housing projects."Previously, the highest prices were around Rs 50 lakh at the Alur Housing Project for its 3 BHK duplex houses, while the 2BHK flats at Valegerahalli Phase-VI were priced at Rs 44 lakh, all of which were sold out," he said.

The next set of houses to cost above Rs 1 crore will be at Hunnigere, which are individual houses and not flats.

Now, Hosakere Lake froths, BBMP points finger at BWSSB pipes



Sewage enters the Hosakere Lake. Residents say garbage is dumped illegally in it leading to extensive pollution | SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

AFTER frothing at Varthur and Bellandur lakes grabbed headlines in the past, the issue has now been reported from Hosakere Lake in Kengeri.

BBMP chief engineer (lake division) Vijaykumar Haridas claimed that the frothing was a result of sewage from BWSSB pipes entering the lake from stormwater drains due to the heavy rainfall. Work on a 1.5 km sewage diversion channel is under way and it will be completed in the next three months, he said.

Satish TM, a resident of Kengeri, said the lake, located adjacent to Vishweshwaraiah Layout, always faced problems like illegal dumping of waste and odour.

"Garbage like plastic material and thermocols are dumped in it. On top of that, sewage is entering the lake, resulting in foul odour. This is for the first time that we are seeing frothing. This is a big lake and is rich in biodiversity with peacocks around the wetland area," he said.

He further added that as the water body has no monitoring, garbage is being dumped illegally.

The lake is spread across 44 acres and was earlier under the Bengaluru Development Authority. It was handed over to the Palike in 2019, but the civic body is yet to develop it. "The problem of frothing started only now as sewage is entering the lake. We are working on a 1.5-km diversion channel. There is a huge rock on the site and the contractor has said it will take two months to complete the work. Once the work is done, the issue of frothing will be over," said Haridas.

The BBMP lake department said it will deploy home guards for safety and security.

24TH May : Wednesday is said to be ruled by Mercury. At least that's what the ancient astrologers said. According to tradition, babies born on this day are good communicators. They can tell a yarn, spin a good story and wrap everyone else around their fingers with their silver tongue. That's quite a skill!

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
A clash or confrontation with an employer, or someone in a position of authority is almost inevitable, and may be desirable. The best possible outcome is that your advances will be welcomed. If you receive a rebuff, then work out how to do better next time.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Today's beneficial Moon is somehow special, but it confers on you a duty to be virtuous in every respect. Your standards cannot be allowed to slip, and if they do then you may be the first to lose. Don't criticise others too harshly, at least not until you've had a chance to explain yourself.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
So much now depends on the outcome of a current wrangle over finances. Of course, if you don't care what other people think, and have no worries about the future, you may be as extravagant as possible. You really have to take a cool look at your own circumstances and decide what is best.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
You appear to be experiencing a make-or-break situation as far as one emotional tie is concerned. Be aware, though, that such connections may be to places or institutions rather than purely to people. The main issue could be your reluctance to let go of the past. Perhaps now is the time to wave farewell to your memories.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
Deep down you must know that the time has come when you must put your money where your mouth is. Only when other people have enough regard for you to come in on equal terms will you know that a particular project is worthwhile. And, once you've established clear goals, you'll be much happier.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Rightly or wrongly, you are renowned for being super-efficient, but to say that you should now be able to turn almost any situation to your own advantage may sound like flattery. However, with the Moon making such a helpful aspect to Jupiter, this is precisely what we must say.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The recent past appears to have been coloured by flared tempers and tense situations, probably connected with other people's failure to observe proper decorum. For the next four weeks exploit every little opportunity to get your point across as ruthlessly as possible.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You don't have to do everything yourself, and you may allow others to push ahead on your behalf. However, you should not attempt in any way to persuade them to go against their own interests. It is not for you to expect others to make a sacrifice.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Some financial or business matters seem to have become too much of a hassle, perhaps because certain group ventures have gone off the rails, or if friends have inadvertently undermined your confidence. There may still be time to back out if the price tag seems too high.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You still need to tie up a few loose ends on the work front and ensure that others really will come up with all they promise to provide. However, you may have to accept now that other people must be allowed to drop out of their commitments. A little kindness will be appreciated!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Don't overreact to what is said on the home front by people who frankly should know better. It's not them talking - it's that old emotional Moon sending warnings of romantic turbulence around the corner. As long as you sense how others are feeling, you can take evasive action.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Powerful alignments involving Jupiter, planet of freedom and independence, are telling you that there really is a way out of a long-term emotional dilemma after all.. All you need to do is make up your mind! And then, of course, you'll have to communicate your wishes to others.

More than 20 students from Karnataka have cleared the UPSC exam that was held in September 2022.

M Pooja, also from Mysuru, secured the All-India ranking of 390. She said, "I completed my engineering in 2019 and started preparations for the civil service exam from 2020. I did not join any coaching class, but only attended a programme at Insights in Bengaluru for a mock interview."

She said, "My mother wanted me to join the civil services, as she couldn't. My parents supported me and encouraged me to study for the exams. It is difficult to pass the exam without dedication and hardwork. Without my parents, I couldn't have succeeded. I have fulfilled my mother's dream."

Meghana's father said, "This was her second attempt and she was to write her mains on May 27. Before that she got her results and she has emerged successful." She was to write the mains for the third time.

Shruti, daughter of a retired school teacher Shivanand and homemaker Mahananda, said, "I am thankful to my parents who stood in my support while I faced failure and success. My school teacher encouraged me in every step while attending the examination. I would love to serve my country as an IAS officer. But it is still not clear which cadre will be allocated to me."

She attended coaching classes in Delhi for one year after her graduation and then in Bengaluru.

She has been a meritorious student since her school days and bagged seven gold medals in BSc.

Her siblings Arun and Veeresh too are preparing for the competitive exam.

Two engineers, lawyer held for robbing PG accommodation owners

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Kumaraswamy Layout police have arrested a lawyer and two engineering graduates on the charges of robbery. The trio — Swaroop (27), Atmananda Jambagi (27) and Shalim Raj (21) — was residing in a paying guest (PG) accommodation and would target PG accommodation owners and rob them.

The modus operandi is that the three would call PG accommodation owners in the area under the pretext that they would help them find a building to expand their business. They used to invite the owners to under-construction buildings and used to threaten them that they would inject chemicals into their bodies that will paralyse them. Out of fear, the owners used to surrender their mobile phones, the jewels and cash they had, the police said.

They also targeted houses of people whom they were familiar with. They added that these three used to know the day-to-day activities of the people in the house they are going to target.

Recently, they went to civil contractor Muralidhar's house under the pretext of verifying visa documents. They confirmed that Muralidhar was alone at home before entering his house for the theft. Wearing face masks, they hid their identity, tied up the contractor and burgled cash, gold and ornaments worth over Rs 15 lakh, the police added.

The police were able to nab the three based on the complaint filed by the contractor.

Police bust bike theft racket, recover 72 vehicles

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Bommanahalli police have busted an interstate gang who were stealing expensive bikes and scooters across the city and selling it in Tamil Nadu.

The police have recovered 72 bikes and scooters worth over ₹1.2 crore that were stolen over the past five months.

The police had formed a special team to nab the accused.

The four-member gang used to come to the city at night by bus from Tamil Nadu and get down at Garvebhavi Palya in Bengaluru to look for bikes to steal.

They used to recce areas in Bommanahalli, Begur, Mico Layout, Parappana Agrahara, Hebbagodi, Attibele, and Chandapura to identify houses that had luxury bikes parked outside.

Two of the members would break open the vehicle lock, while the rest would keep a watch, the police said.

After stealing, they would ride them to Tiruppatur, Vaniyambadi, Vellore, Ambur, and other parts of Tamil Nadu and sell them to buyers without any documents.

Police said that they had chased and nabbed the main accused in April during a night patrol. Based on his information, the special team busted the racket.

KHADER FILES NOMINATION FOR SPEAKER'S POST, WIN CERTAIN

Mangaluru MLA has won five times on the trot, election likely today

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

DEPUTY leader of the CLP and Mangaluru MLA UT Khader on Tuesday filed his nomination for the Speaker's at the secretariat, accompanied by CM Siddaramaiah, Deputy CM DK Shivakumar, cabinet minister Zameer Ahmed Khan and MLA Dr Ajay Singh.

Being a lone nominee and with Congress' brute numbers in the Assembly, Khader's election should be an easy affair. Secretariat officials, however, said, "There is a formality that needs to be followed. His name will be proposed and seconded as per rules and will be put to vote. The pro tem Speaker will declare him elected since there is no other contestant.''

They said, "Nine MLAs are yet to take oath and if they do so before 11 am on Wednesday, the Speaker's election will be taken up." Khader tweeted, "Today, I filed nomination papers for the post of Speaker in the presence of CM Siddaramaiah, Dy CM DK Shivakumar and other leaders. I am grateful to the Congress and the people for giving me the opportunity to serve them in various capacities."

AICC General Secretary, Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala said, "Congratulations to our young dynamic leader UT Khader for filing the sole nomination for the post of Speaker. Not only would he be the youngest Speaker, but also the first from Dakshina Kannada. His solid knowledge of law, long experience and capacity for deft handling will go a long way in enriching the Vidhana Soudha in Karnataka.''

Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar wished Khader success and congratulated him in advance, considering his win a certainty. Khader entered politics after his father UT Fareed, who was also an MLA, passed away in 2007. He contested that year and won, and since then, he has emerged victorious in five successive Assembly elections.

He was health minister in the previous Siddaramaiah government and is remembered for his initiative to launch two-wheeler ambulances. He also initiated Arogyasri scheme, dental health scheme (Danta Bhagya), dialysis units in government taluk hospitals, Harish Santhwana Yojana and many others that received good feedback from the people.

As food minister from 2016 to 2018, he launched the delivery of ration cards at the doorsteps of beneficiaries by simplifying the procedure that was cumbersome earlier needing 10-12 documents and also a valid Aadhaar card to apply.

In 2018, as housing minister in the coalition government, he introduced many people-friendly projects, including the Mangaluru Smart City initiative.

Did Khader's no-camp stance cost him berth?

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

WITH senior Congress leader UT Khader accepting the party high command's decision to be the Speaker, his followers are now disappointed as they were expecting the five-time MLA to get a plum ministerial portfolio in Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's cabinet.

If Khader had been made a minister, it would have helped revive the Grand Old Party in the twin districts of Dakshina Kannada and Udupi where they have just bagged 2 of 13 seats.

After veterans like B Ramanath Rai, Vinay Kumar Sorake, K Abhayachandra Jain, and K Vasanth Bangera retreated from poll politics, Khader was the sole senior party leader left, who could have turned around the party's prospects in that region. "He knows the ground reality and enjoys the confidence of party workers and people. All three MLCs and an MLA from the region are first-timers," said a leader, who is close to Khader, and predicted a big setback for the party in that region.

Khader has accepted the position, but it came as a shock to many, who requested him to refuse the offer. A disgruntled supporter said Khader would have been better off being just an MLA as the Speaker's position would require him to be neutral and non-partisan. "For someone like Khader, who always likes to be in his constituency and resolving people's problems, the position would leave him with both hands tied," said a supporter.

Many believe his loyalty only to the party and maintaining distance from the camps cost him a ministerial berth. "He became a soft target as he had none to lobby for him. If he was in the Siddaramaiah or DK Shivakumar's camp, such a situation could have been averted," said a Congress leader. A senior party leader said, "Whatever responsibilities were given, he had handled everything competently. People still remember his contributions as Food and Civil Supplies and Health ministers. There could be someone in the party who ensured he did not become a minister."

Leaders who can win LS seats for party likely to get berths

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

AFTER eight top leaders were included in the Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's cabinet in the first round, several other ministerial aspirants from across the state are waiting with their fingers crossed for the cabinet expansion. Even as many of them are lobbying with the chief minister and party high command, the party could pick those legislators who are expected to boost the party's prospects in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, party sources said.

The party is working on a strategy to win a maximum number of Lok Sabha seats by riding on the popularity of some of the MLAs who have won the Assembly polls by big margins. The party is aware that equations will be different for the general elections and voters may not behave the way they did in the Assembly elections. That is why the party is keen to get most of its popular MLAs into the cabinet, rather than resorting to a ₹balancing act' to satisfy all sections, the sources said.

The party has already made its intentions clear by inducting eight of its experienced and popular leaders. The inclusion of Yamakanmardi MLA Satish Jarkiholi may get the party the Belagavi Lok Sabha seat as he is popular in the region, some party leaders said. To attract Lingayat voters in the Chikkodi Lok Sabha constituency, the party should pick Laxman Savadi considering his hold on several Assembly segments there, the leaders suggested.

Some popular faces in Bombay-Karnataka and Kalyan Karnataka who are likely to make it to the cabinet include Eshwar Khandre, Shivanand Patil, Basavaraj Rayareddy, Nagendra, Sharanabasappa Darshanapur and Sharanprakash Patil.

Priyank Kharge and M B Patil, who may play a big role in the Lok Sabha polls, are already in the cabinet. The party is also seriously considering inducting Vinay Kulkarni and Jagadish Shettar to take on BJP's sitting MP from Hubballi and Union minister Pralhad Joshi.

But Congress could also field Shettar against Joshi in the Lok Sabha elections and if that is the case, he will not be included in the cabinet, sources said.

The cabinet expansion is likely either on Friday or Saturday after Siddaramaiah holds a meeting with the party high command in New Delhi over the next two to three days, the sources said. The party may have a cabinet of 28 ministers and go for another round of expansion to include five more ministers after some time, they added.

CM Siddramaiah shakes hands with Congress MLA Madhu Bangarappa on Tuesday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

CM, DyCM FOR DELHI TODAY

Bengaluru: Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar would head to New Delhi on Wednesday evening to discuss cabinet expansion with the party's central leadership and AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge. Sources said the CM is likely to expand his cabinet on Friday or Saturday. However, it will be decided after the CM and DyCM discuss it with the central leaders. Soon after the three-day Assembly session concludes on Wednesday, the two top leaders will be travelling to New Delhi by a special flight. Sources said Siddaramaiah is likely to induct 20 new ministers.

Siddu: Take steps to avoid disasters

ENSURE that there is no shortage of seeds and fertilizers. If trees are uprooted, take steps to clear them immediately. If transformers are damaged, get them repaired quickly, the CM told the officials.

"If bridges or school buildings are in a dilapidated condition, they should be repaired at the earliest to prevent any disaster during the monsoon. "If we take precautionary measures, we can avoid disasters," he said.

Referring to the deaths due to heavy rain in Bengaluru, the CM said BBMP officials have been directed to shut underpasses which get flooded whenever it rains. The officials have also been instructed to desilt stormwater drains and clear encroachments.

Siddaramaiah said people are looking for a change. "They should feel that the new government is responding to their problems," he added. Deputy CM Shivakumar told DCs and CEOs that their work under the previous government was not up to the mark. They did not respond in a proper manner when people lost their houses and properties due to rain. This should not repeat, he said.

Complete works on time: CM to officers

Bengaluru: CM Siddaramaiah directed the officers to complete all works on time and fulfill people's expectations. In his maiden meeting with senior IAS officers, the CM said if the government gets a bad name because of some officers, it will not be tolerated. "Without a strong government, we cannot fulfill people's expectations. People's expectations are high," he said, adding that the previous government did not take up development works and was mired in corruption. "It must be ensured that every work is of high quality and officers should not blindly sign on files."

In ministry race, it's game of schemers

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AS there are two massive power centres in the present Congress government, strange combinations are playing out in the formation of the ministry. Zameer Ahmed Khan, despite stiff resistance from Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, made the cut as he is a close confidant of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah.

But MLC and former AICC general secretary BK Hariprasad was not given a shoo-in as some leaders in the party blocked his entry.

Hariprasad's followers are now upset and are questioning how their leader, who was AICC general secretary in charge of 16 states, could be ignored. But his detractors said that Hariprasad is an MLC and the priority is given to Assembly members.

His supporters, however, argued that the present limit of 34 ministers is 10 per cent of the 300 legislators – 224+1 MLAs and 75 MLCs.

But Council members never get their share as Assembly members dominate.

As per the equation, at least six MLCs should get ministries. Never have six MLCs been inducted into the cabinets of any of the previous governments, they pointed out.

Sources said that the party had planned a bigger ministry to take oath when Siddaramaiah, Shivakumar and eight ministers were sworn-in on May 19, but internal issues scotched that plan.

Meanwhile, many aspirants went to New Delhi to knock on the doors of the central leadership hoping that their chances of getting into the ministry would improve.

When the next cabinet expansion takes place, which is likely before Saturday, it will be interesting to see who blocks who.

Keep mum on internal issues: Congress brass after Patil's 'power sharing' remark

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AS Minister MB Patil's remarks on Chief Minister Siddaramaiah continuing as the CM for the full five years caused ripples in the Congress, the party has directed its leaders to refrain from talking about the internal issues.

Sources said that the Congress central leaders have directed the state leaders not to make any unnecessary remarks on the party's internal issues and create confusion. On Monday, Patil had stated that Siddaramaiah will be the CM for five years and there were no talks about power sharing.

"Let anyone say anything. AICC general secretary, CM, and AICC president are there (to take care). Overall development of the state is the only priority for us," Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said responding to a question on Patil's remarks.

Shivakumar's brother and MP DK Suresh said he can also respond sharply to Patil's remarks, but he will not do so.

Congress leaders felt that the new government should focus on the administration and not talk about the party's internal issues or power sharing. After Congress decided to make Siddaramaiah the CM and Shivakumar— who was a strong contender for the top post— the DyCM, there were talks about power sharing between the two. The party, however, had not made any statement in that regard.

Meanwhile, the opposition BJP used the opportunity to hit out at the government. "Siddaramaiah will not allow DK Shivakumar to become CM. MB Patil's statement is a direct warning to Shivakumar," the BJP stated taking to social media. The BJP said the developments in the Congress show that it is unlikely to be a stable government.

On Monday, the CM's faction sent a message, and on Tuesday the DyCM's faction responded to it, the BJP alleged.

Senior BJP leader and former home minister Araga Jnanendra said there are two power centres in Congress and it should not have an adverse impact on Karnataka's development.

NOW, LINGAYAT PANCHAMASALIS PRESS FOR FIVE CABINET POSTS

Belagavi: The Lingayat Panchamasali Samaj, headed by its national president MLA Vijayanand Kashappanavar, met in Bengaluru on Tuesday. Samaj members appealed to the Congress high command and CM Siddaramaiah to induct at least five Panchamasali MLAs in the cabinet. They claimed that several MLAs from the community, including Hunagund MLA Kashappanavar, Dharwad Rural MLA Vinay Kulkarni and Belagavi Rural MLA Laxmi Hebbalkar, were at the forefront of the movement demanding reservation for their community. At the same time, they also appealed to the BJP leadership to make a Panchamasali MLA the leader of opposition or BJP state president.

Cong guarantees spike BPL card demand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Karwar

CONGRESS had made five pre-poll guarantees in their manifesto, which, abiding by their election assurance, were approved in the first meeting of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's cabinet. However, the granular details as to how these guarantees would be implemented are not clear.

The announcements before the elections and the eventual cabinet nod have led to an increase in demand for BPL cards, though already, 7,000 applications are pending before the Food and Civil Supplies department for the last couple of years.

Now, new applications are flooding the office as people want to be ready with the cards when the government comes up with the official outline of the guarantees.

"It has been more than two years since I applied for the card, but it is yet to be cleared," said Ravi Das Naik, a beneficiary. The Food and Civil Supplies department has said it is pending inquiry. "We have been told by the officials that the government has not given the clearance for new cards," said Naik.

People have been visiting their nearest Karnataka One and other service centres to submit online applications for the cards. "The government is yet to come out with any directive for the schemes. Once the government issues them, online applications will be opened," said a department official.

In Uttara Kannada district, the department has received 15,170 BPL card applications and of them, 14,669 have been processed, while 501 withdrawn. Of the processed applications, 5,901 have been considered, while 1,558 rejected. A total of 7,210 applications have been kept in abeyance due to server problems and other issues.

Manjunath Revankar, Deputy Director, Food and Civil Supplies Department, said that they are waiting for the government order to issue new cards. "We are only rectifying errors in ration cards and receiving applications for emergency health service benefits," he said.

ACT AGAINST HATE POSTS: SIDDU

CM Siddaramaiah, who also participated in the meeting, directed the police top brass to act mercilessly against those who use social media to disturb peace and harmony in society. Act against those who use social media for character assassination aslo, he said. Asking them to take steps to control cyber crimes, the CM said a separate meeting would be held soon to discuss ways to ease traffic in Bengaluru. "Police should go after the drug mafia. Hoysala teams should always be vigilant," he said. Senior officers should pay frequent visits to police stations. Police personnel should be polite and kind to those who visit their stations for grievance redressal, he said. He said stringent action should be taken to curb rowdyism, betting and gambling.

People expecting big change from our govt: DKS

REFERRING to the PSI recruitment scam, Shivakumar pulled up the officers for trying to harass the then Congress MLA Priyank Kharge, who is now a minister, by issuing a notice to him for holding a press conference. "The fact that an ADGP-ranking officer had tampered with the OMR sheets, shows how bad things are in the department," he said.

Noting that the police had booked cases against him, Siddaramaiah and party workers for launching the "PayCM" campaign, Shivakumar sought to know why there was no case against a minister, who had allegedly stated that Siddaramaiah should be finished like how Tipu Sultan was killed. He said, "Is that not a crime?"

"Karnataka police have earned a good name in the country. Do not spoil it. People are expecting a big change from our government and that change should start with the police," he said.

HC rejects SDPI's plea to open its offices in DK dist

Court grants organisation liberty to approach dist judge for remedy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday rejected a petition filed by the Social Democratic Party of India (SDPI), questioning the sealing of its offices in Dakshina Kannada after the Government of India banned the Popular Front of India (PFI) and its associates.

The court, however, granted SDPI the liberty to approach the district judge for any remedy available under Section 8(8) of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order after hearing the petition filed by Social Democratic Party of India, represented by District General Secretary Anwar Sadath, Dakshina Kannada, questioning the notification dated September 28, 2022, and seeking directions to the deputy commissioner and police commissioner to remove the seals.

SDPI was not one of the entities declared an associate of PFI, but Social Democratic Party of India's offices were sealed on allegations of them being used by the banned organisation.

"I decline to entertain the petition, reserving liberty to the petitioner to urge all the contentions before the district judge who is empowered to consider the issues under the Act," the judge said.

According to the statement of objections filed by the state government, PFI is declared a banned organisation under Section 3 of the Act.

The court said it forms a seriously disputed question of fact. The notification by which the Union government directs the state government to act in a particular manner cannot be considered in the absence of any evidence. More so, in the light of the contention that the state government has acted beyond the powers conferred on it would be neither here nor there as the state government has, on certain inputs to it, sealed the offices of the petitioner along with others. Merely because all the offices in Mangaluru are sealed and not anywhere else would not mean that evidence would not be required for the petitioner to prove its case in terms of Section 8 of the Act, the court observed.

Will TN man's 30-year exile for intercaste marriage end soon?

JEYALAKSHMI RAMANUJAM
@Dindigul (Tamil Nadu)

AFTER 30 years of being virtually excommunicated by his village for marrying a woman from a different caste, K Palanichamy might finally be able to return to his family home. Following a complaint from the 56-year-old on encroachment of his late father's property, police and revenue officials have agreed to help him.

Palanichamy, who belongs to the Konar community, resides in the Koombur area in Vedasandur. He hails from the village of Palaya Marampatti in the same area but was forced to leave after he married a woman from the Chettiyar community, although both castes fall under the Backward Class category.

He and his wife rented a house in Koombur where he runs a juice shop. In 2017, when his father died, the villagers refused to let him perform the final rites as the eldest son, he said.

"Although I lodged a complaint at the Koombur police station, the cops put me off. The villagers made me offer an unconditional apology and I had to fall at the feet of the village elders," he told The New Indian Express. Recently, he learned that a neighbour had encroached on his land and built a toilet. He again approached the police, who directed him to the District Principal Sessions Court.

Palanichamy said he has two younger sisters and a younger brother. "Over 30 years ago, I married a woman while working in Hyderabad, but even now influential villagers do not include me in the village. I have several relatives residing there but none invite us to family functions. They don't mingle with us citing the village rules. Influential persons have refused to accept the customary tax for the community deity from me since my father died," he lamented.

Claiming that no one from the village came forward to help the family cremate his father's body, he said he is worried now as his mother is in poor health.

He said he had lodged a complaint at the Koombur station about his family being excommunicated and for the customary tax for the deity to be collected from him. "I have even petitioned the Chief Minister's cell in vain," he added.

After The New Indian Express asked Dindigal Superintendent of Police V Baskaran about the matter, he sent police personnel to meet Palanichamy at his residence on Monday. Baskaran said Palaichamy had given a complaint at the Koombur police station on Tuesday and assured that action would be taken. Vedasandur tahsildar Vijayalakshmi said she had received a petition from Palanichamy and would form a peace committee to solve the issue.

NOTEBANDI 2.0: RUSH AT FUEL STATIONS, JEWELLERY STORES

MEANWHILE, no rush was witnessed in jewellery shops as well with most jewellers reporting business as usual. However, some jewellers in Telangana and Karnataka said some people are making payments in ₹2,000 notes. Across Karnataka, the ₹2,000 note exchange rush was seen more at petrol stations, jewellery stores, malls and stores than at the banks.

Kerala witnessed a slow start to exchange of ₹2,000 notes with very few people turning up at banks to exchange the pink notes. "There is ample time till September 30 to exchange the notes. Also, many customers are making full use of digital banking and UPI payments and hence they do not have big currencies in their possession. In case of bulk payments such as ₹5-10 lakh or more, customers are depositing it in their accounts as normal procedure," said the manager of a nationalised bank in Kochi.

In Chennai, bank branches in residential areas wore a desolate look with fewer footfalls while those in Purasawalkam, Vepery and other commercial areas saw people arrive in small numbers to exchange as well as deposit ₹2,000 notes. The manager of the nearby Federal Bank said only less than 10 persons came to the bank for exchanging money. The bank collected their Aadhaar card details as identity proof.

KP Murali, president of Tamil Nadu Petroleum Dealers Association, said they are getting a lot of ₹2,000 notes. "We urge RBI to direct banks to provide us with adequate change so we can transition through this period smoothly," he said.

Banks in Delhi witnessed brisk activity and crowds. However, there was confusion among customers about the procedure to exchange and deposit notes. Heated arguments broke out at some branches with bank staff allegedly refusing to provide the correct information and demanded identity proof. There were also complaints of banks refusing to exchange notes and forcing customers to deposit the money in their accounts.

In Andhra Pradesh, there was no rush in banks to exchange ₹2,000 denomination notes. People tried to expend the money through commercial establishments, petrol filling stations and jewellers but they were reluctant to accept the notes. Realtors, however, said they would be ready to accept the notes if people come forward as it would a push to the sector, which is yet to recover fully from the slump. Alla Siva Reddy, Chairman of CREDAI, said: "No realtor in the state is having money as there is no business in the state for the past few years and several realtors went out of the state. We are ready to accept ₹2,000 notes until September 23."

Meanwhile, in a bid to cash in on the situation, the Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation has announced an offer for house owners to pay property tax in ₹2,000 notes.

There was no panic rush to banks in Odisha. No large crowds were witnessed in any bank in the state and the process. Very few people turned up to either deposit or exchange the high value notes at branches in Bhubaneswar, Cuttack, and several other cities.

Odisha cracks down on ganja in Shiva temples

ENS @ Bhubaneswar

THE Odisha government on Tuesday said it will strictly enforce the ban on ganja at Shiva temples across the state.

A direction regarding this was issued to all districts, and the police by the Odia Language, Literature and Culture Department. 'Ganjan' or marijuana in no form be used in any Shiva temple in the state, the government told the districts.

"Like the practice of animal sacrifice was banned at Bhagabati Temple in Banapur in Khurda, and subsequently it was banned in most of the temples, the restriction will be imposed on the use of ganja in all Shiva temples in Odisha," Culture Minister Ashwini Patra said. The state government's decision came after Padma Shri Baba Balia, the head of Ananta Balia Trust, wrote to the Excise Department last month to impose restrictions on the use of ganja.

While ganja is not offered to the deity at Lingaraj temple in Bhubaneswar, it is a century-old practice observed during 'Gharsana' ritual at Akhandalamani shrine in Bhadrak. The 'bhog' is later offered to the devotees.

Opposing the decision, Congress MLA Suresh Routray said, "Bhang is offered to Lord Narayan, while ganja is offered to Lord Shiva. These are 'bhog' and shouldn't be banned." PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mysuru

MYSURU police have arrested three persons from Kerala and recovered ambergris or the whale vomit worth ₹18 crore from them.

Sharing the details with media persons here on Tuesday, SP Seema Latkar said the police have seized 9.821 kg of ambergris valued ₹18 crore. The solid waxy substance is produced by endangered sperm whales. "It is the first and the biggest seizure of the whale vomit by the police in the district. The ambergris per kg is valued ₹1.5 crore to ₹1.8 crore in the international market," she said.

The SP said based on the information by CEN police inspector Purushothama, the HD Kote police inspector Shabir Ahmed and his team apprehended three persons who were sitting in a car near a hotel at the HD Kote handpost and seized the ambergris from them. The three were produced before a court which remanded them in judicial custody. "The trio had obtained the ambergris from local fishermen in Kerala and were transporting it to Bengaluru crossing the state border when they were caught by the police. The forest department have confirmed it as ambergris and have registered cases against the trio under various sections of the Wildlife Protection Act at HD Kote police station. "It is exported to foreign countries illegally, especially to Arab countries for making fine perfume," she added.

'Tech advancement reshapes landscape of int'l trade'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE rapid advancement of technology is reshaping the landscape of international trade, said Commerce Secretary Sunil Barthwal.

In his inaugural address at the 2nd G20 Trade and Investment Working Group (TIWG) meeting in Bengaluru on Tuesday, Barthwal also spoke about enhancing collaboration to enhance trade facilitation, including digital exchange of cross-border trade documents. He also called for deeper G20 collaboration to harness the transformative power of trade and technology for the benefit of economies and societies.

The G20 meeting discussed trade and technology cooperation among the G20 member countries. Representatives from member countries, industry and academic experts from around the world were present at the conference to engage in constructive dialogue and exchange of ideas in the field of business and technology.

Som Prakash, Minister of State for Commerce and Industry, in his keynote address emphasised that by working together we can overcome challenges, harness technology and build a prosperous future for all.

Two panel discussions were organised as part of the programme featuring international experts. The session discussed emerging technologies and innovations such as additive manufacturing, generative AI, internet of things, blockchain, driverless vehicles and drones, and artificial intelligence including augmented/virtual reality. GLOBAL MESSAGING FROM THE TOURISM G20 MEET IN SRINAGAR

For the first time since the reading down of Article 370 in Jammu and Kashmir, a major international event is underway in Srinagar amid 'invisible policing' without the locals facing any hassle. It's also for the first time since the eruption of militancy in 1990 that life is completely normal in the Valley without any strike or shutdown at a time when the city is hosting a tourism meeting of the Group of 20 nations. In the past, Kashmir invariably used to observe a bandh during high-profile visits following calls from militant outfits and separatists. Apart from Boulevard Road and Gupkar Road, where J&K's movers and shakers reside and where the delegates are now lodged, there were negligible security restrictions elsewhere. Behind all the peace and tranquillity are the scaled-up security cover, including the deployment of specialised marine commandos, National Security Guards and a counter-drone battery to try and keep the meet venue on the banks of the Dal Lake safe. The delegates, however, couldn't move around freely in the city, given the spate of terrorist encounters with security forces in the run-up to the event. Because of security concerns, plans to let the visitors have a good look and feel of Kashmir had to be reworked at the last moment, like axing visits to the Gulmarg ski resort and the Dachigam national park on Srinagar's outskirts. But Shikara rides on the Dal Lake, visits to the Mughal Gardens, and a few other sightseeing spots were left undisturbed.

If the government wanted to showcase Kashmir as a prime destination for film shoots and tourism, it made the right pitch. Domestic tourism is already booming, with 18.8 million footfalls last year—the highest in decades. Drawing international tourists would certainly be a money-spinner. But if the government wanted to make the larger point that normalcy is back in the Valley, as its megaphones sought to suggest, the delegates surely were better informed. They knew, despite the deceptive calm, terrorists were still on the prowl.

If normalcy has indeed been restored, the Centre ought to have no problems in clearing the decks for Assembly polls. Yet, nearly four years after J&K lost its special powers and statehood, its people are still waiting to exercise their franchise. But there seems to be no urgency to let them do so. Giving them back their agency, which is their democratic right, cannot be indefinitely postponed.

PINK NOTE TURBULENCE SETS OFF GOLD RUSH

The Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) decision to withdraw the ₹2000 note has not created the dismay we saw in the November 2016 demonetisation process, but the underlying disquiet cannot be missed. A relatively long period allowing people to change their pink notes to smaller tender, till September 30, has perhaps kept tensions within manageable limits. However, the surest sign of the turbulence the second demonetisation round has caused is the stampede for gold. The ₹2000 note can be deposited in bank accounts and exchanged in lots of ₹20,000 with no questions asked. Yet many who had stashed the pink notes in large numbers seem to prefer gold as their new parking lot.

Reports from the bullion markets in Mumbai, Jaipur, Surat and other centres said there was a sudden spike of 10% to 20% in people buying gold, silver and jewellery. The high commission in unofficial trading reflects the high volume. In Mumbai, on Saturday, the day after the pink note was withdrawn, gold was sold for around ₹67,000 per 10 grams when paid for with ₹2,000 notes, compared with the official rate that day of ₹63,800. Jewellery has not attracted huge commissions, but jewellery buying, too, has shot up 10–20% in the last few days. All this can be partly explained by many preferring to avoid the taxman's scrutiny.

However, gold has always been the safe haven for investment and short-term parking of funds when the economy is turbulent. All over the world, it is seen as a hedge against inflation and a good investment option as it is very liquid and has generally shown an upward movement in prices. In India, gold has shown a higher appreciation, giving 13% returns from last year, much higher than other asset classes such as equities and property. It also has cultural importance. Gold wealth has always commanded snob value, and no big fat Indian wedding is complete without a high transaction in the yellow metal. Demonetising the ₹2000 notes has suddenly reinforced many of these negative trends. India has the largest hoard of privately held gold, estimated at above $1.5 trillion. For years, the government has been attempting to unshackle this largely unproductive stash and make it an engine of production and growth. However, the latest RBI decision will only reinforce the tendency to keep gold locked up.

QUICK TAKE

LOCALISING GOVERNANCE

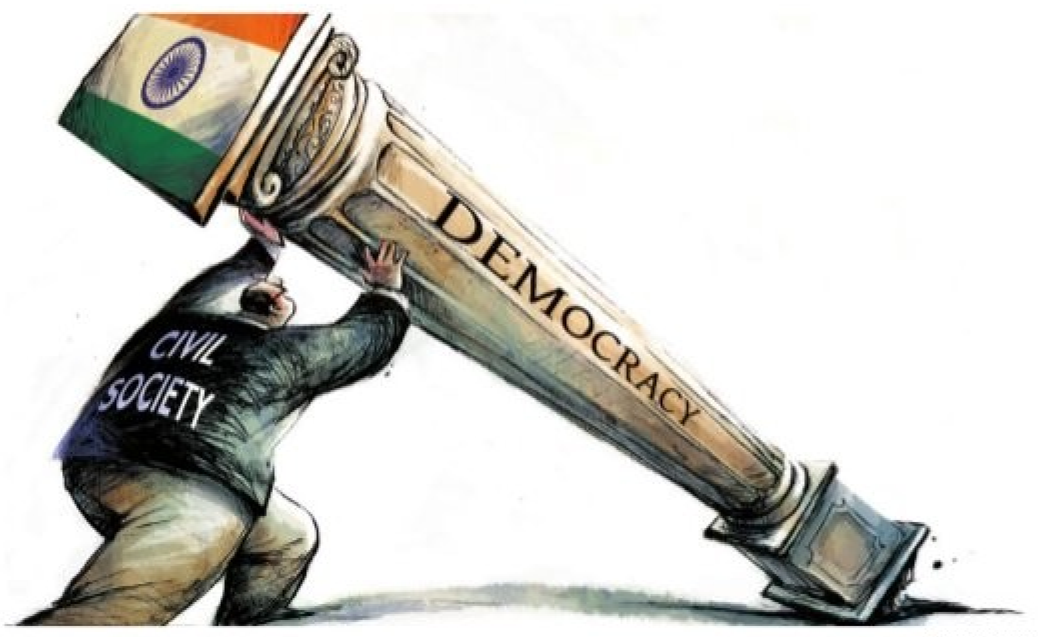
Rajasthan is creating 19 new districts, taking the tally to 50. The national figure may be inching close to 800. Politicians reason smaller districts are easier to administer. They argue that such exercises create new growth centres as land rates spiral and increase investment. But new infrastructural costs nullify the benefits. Instead, the states must examine their extant local self-government policies that beg total decentralisation. A functional governance apparatus at the lower levels—the Panchayati Raj institutions—exists but without devolution of power. If fully empowered, they are the in-situ institutions to take government to the last village standing.

It is civil society that makes India pluralistic, providing for alternatives beyond the ritualistic game of electoralism

THE RETURN OF CIVIL SOCIETY IS IMPERATIVE

SHIV VISVANATHAN

Social scientist associated with THE COMPOST HEAP, a group researching alternative imaginations



SOUMYADIP SINHA

The idiot relief that the Karnataka election provided has barely lasted a week, as the Congress engages its greatest enemy—itself. Amid continued infighting, the celebrations vis-à-vis opposition unity disappear into thin air over Mumbai, Kolkata, and Bengaluru. A friend, who is more a classic grammarian rather than a political scientist, warned me, "Do not confuse opponents with the opposition. Opponents are single, discreet, atomistic, and antagonistic. An opposition is a collective with a vitality and mindset of its own. The Modi regime has random opponents but faces no real opposition." I realised my friend was both grammatically and politically correct.

Reflecting on it, I realised that the tragedy is deeper. The cause lies not just in the mediocrity of the opposition but in the failure of civil society initiatives. India celebrated the vitality of civil society after the Emergency. The Emergency triggered the creativity of the People's Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL) and People's Union for Democratic Rights (PUDR) and gave the charisma of dissent to the university. The Emergency gave dissent respectability. Today's civil society seems to be dead. It is so impoverished that one has to re-emphasise the crucial, critical and life-giving nature of civil society. It is civil society that makes India pluralistic, providing for alternatives beyond the ritualistic game of electoralism. It provides a compost heap of ideas that makes democracy a continuous drama of experiments.

The silence of civil society is the greatest victory of the majoritarian regime. The disintegration of civil society was achieved systematically. The BJP merged the nation state and democracy, making patriotism the greatest virtue, and dissent the dominant political vice. Secondly, it turned minoritarian politics into a mechanical affair. Political violence against minorities was now a standardised prelude to all elections. What was once an electoral reassurance of agency and a statement of political concern now appears starkly distant and indifferent. At a recent conference, a Jesuit scholar put it pointedly. He said, "I'm tired of being a minority, I want to be an Indian and a citizen in a civil society. The idea of the minority in India becomes a perpetual loyalty test for marginals and ethnic groups. It smells of threat rather than an evocation of rights."

The regime's destruction of dissent is a macabre ritual. It first transforms the language of development into a sacred complex and then arrests environmentalists as non-believers and anti-nationals. It batters the university to an intellectual pulp, destroying any possibility of criticism or alternatives. It then creates a huge net by labelling all activists as urban naxals. It demands an officially correct citizenship. As a result, the silence of civil society is deafening.

However, one must also admit it is a self-inflicted injury. The Left, today, is almost moronic in its passivity. It has no sense of creativity, either regarding work and labour or in a more general parliamentary sense.

The civilian Left has withered as an imagination, leaving space for a frivolous and pompous liberalism. In fact, mediocrity as totalitarianism dominates the public space as civil society withers in silence. We have to look for unexpected domains to ambush the BJP with the playfulness of dissent.

One needs the Anthropocene as a new imagination, where the human recognises that he or she is damaging Earth. The idea of humanity as an ecological hazard is something our regime does not understand but civil society as a repository of civilisation can. By using religion and reworking spirituality, civil society can create new institutions as footprints for itself.

Civil society has to create a new sense of the commons, rework the rights of nature and create a new mode of constitutional thinking that can challenge the regime and its Adanis. Civilisation in its plurality and sacredness has to challenge the arid secularism of the nation state. The emphasis should now be on diversity, and civil society needs to rewrite the Constitution beyond the Enlightenment era imagination. Civil society in a Gandhian sense has to absorb both Swadeshi and Swaraj, creating a new perspective to challenge the parochialism of the majoritarian State.

Civil society has to think more internationally to function more creatively in local terms. Peace now becomes the new portfolio of civil society as it attempts to redeem the national security state and its obsession with surveillance. Civil society has to provide a pedagogy, re-teaching the state the language of pluralism. One brilliant example of this is the late Ela Bhatt's work on the grahani of peace. She showed that housewives should not be restricted by current definitions of home or patriarchy. The housewife becomes the new inventor of peace, rethinking war beyond security and sustainability. She has to create a new sense of care built around an understanding of the way women suffer during war and violence. The housewife uses the imagination of the household to think pluralistically. Visualising multiple layers of possibilities that go beyond the frozen nation state, peace has to invent new forms of hospitality, memory and caring.

Religion has to be reworked and the theological wisdom of philosopher-activists like Raimondo Panikkar, Desmond Tutu and Thomas Merton has to spread a new creativity of peace. Local gurus should also rethink the religion of peace rather than build ashrams to cater to the egoism of corporates. Our religions should use their cornucopia of metaphors to create new scenarios of peace with China and Pakistan. Democracy must become the new pretext for hope and experiments. The Jesuit journal Pax Lumina captures such a vision of peace built around a South Asian imagination.

Most of all, civil society should offer new possibilities of childhood which go beyond the industrialised and clericalised tutorial college model touted daily in our newspapers. We have to remember that children are dreamers who are playful, imaginative and quirky—precisely the characteristics civil society needs today.

Let me explain through a little anecdote. A child was running around his neighbourhood observing all the gossip surrounding King Charles' coronation and the accompanying demand for the return of the Kohinoor. A bit later, I heard a familiar recitation with an unexpected twist:

"Pussycat pussycat where have you been,
I've been to London to look at the queen.
Pussycat, pussycat what did you do there?
I frightened the Kohinoor under the chair."

One needs to imitate the happy impudence of children for civil society to stand up to the authoritarianism of the majoritarian State.

CONGRESS AND KARNATAKA: FIVE LEAVES OUT OF KEJRIWAL'S BOOK

PRIYANKA KAKKAR

Chief National Spokesperson, Aam Aadmi Party

In a break from its recent electoral performance, the Congress party won the Karnataka Assembly elections on May 13. The people of Karnataka were massively miffed at the anti-people governance and all-around corruption of the BJP government, and this was reflected in the predictions of most exit polls. Even the diehard supporters of the Congress—very few in the current political scenario—were unsure of how the results would play out despite being aware of the anti-incumbency prevalent in the state. This is because of the horrific electoral run of the Congress since 2013, where it has bagged only a few states and lost too many.

As soon as the results mirrored what was said in the exit polls, the office of the Congress party in Delhi—which generally offers a deserted look—was abuzz with celebration. The leaders promptly followed the popular ritual of thanking their dear leader Rahul Gandhi. Party spokespersons took no time to remind TV anchors that the success of Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra bore fruit in the state. But is that the case?

Sure, analyses by political pundits may highlight that the Congress won 36 out of 51 constituencies in the state through which Rahul Gandhi's yatra passed. But a closer look highlights that there is more to it than meets the eye. Essentially, sitting even in Delhi, one could feel the people's anger against the Bommai-led government. It is the failure of the Congress party that despite such strong anti-incumbency, the BJP managed to maintain its 36% vote share in the state. The Congress made an additional gain of only 4.8% vote share even though the BJP was constantly battling factional feuds and reeling under anti-incumbency. Further analysis reveals that the Congress won at least 37 Assembly seats by a narrow margin, some as close as 200–250 votes. For example, former state Congress chief Dinesh Gundu Rao secured a victory by just 105 votes from the Gandhi Nagar seat.

Notably, in Bengaluru, Karnataka's most urbanised political region, the Congress improved its vote share by less than 1%. In contrast, the BJP improved its share by 6%. The BJP's vote share in the Mysuru region also increased by around 3%. Contrary to popular belief, the BJP did much better than the Congress, at least among urban voters.

Overall, what also went in the favour of the Congress party was the dismal performance of the JD(S). The Kumaraswamy-led party suffered a 5% decline in its vote share, resulting in a whopping loss of 18 seats. It is said that many of the JD(S) voters favoured the Congress this time to keep the corrupt BJP out of power.

The Congress is mistaken if it thinks this will be repeated in future elections. Also, the BJP government's decision to scrap the 4% quota for Muslims and issues like the hijab ban consolidated the Muslim voters in Congress' favour.

PTI

The Aam Aadmi Party did contest and lose in Karnataka, but the party took this election as an organisation-building exercise

Political pundits say that a sizeable number of Lingayats, about 17% of the state's population, voted for the Congress for the first time in three decades. The BJP played with the sentiments of the Lingayats by unceremoniously removing Yediyurappa as CM in 2021 and paying the price for it. The historical pattern of changing the government every five years in the state also worked for the Congress.

Further, the Congress' success can be attributed to its strong state leadership of D K Shivakumar and Siddaramaiah, two prominent political figures with mass appeal. To say that RaGa and his yatra had a major impact on the Karnataka polls is like taking away credit from the party's local leadership.

Say, what was the impact of Rahul's yatra on the Jalandhar Lok Sabha bypoll, where unfortunately, the local MP succumbed to a heart attack during the yatra and his wife could not manage to retain the seat, a stronghold of the Congress for 61 years. Rahul's yatra didn't make any difference in the UP local body elections either, where the AAP grabbed more seats than the Congress.

Talking about the AAP, the party significantly impacted the Karnataka election sans any electoral success. First, the much-talked-about five guarantees of the Karnataka Congress was a strategy straight out of Arvind Kejriwal's book. It's rather rich how the Congress and the BJP join hands to vehemently criticise the AAP for offering social welfare schemes like free electricity or free bus rides to women, only to follow the same strategy elsewhere. However, both these parties could not deliver on the promises they made in so many years of their rule.

In Karnataka, the Congress emulated some smart political moves of Kejriwal. Its entire leadership, including Rahul Gandhi, strategically focused on local issues and the Bommai government. This approach was identical to Kejriwal's strategy during the Delhi and Punjab elections, where he successfully negated the Modi factor to null, not once but thrice.

It's absolutely fine for Rahul Gandhi to follow in Kejriwal's footsteps, but he lacks the honest intent, the never-say-die spirit and the political acumen of the AAP leader. It was Kejriwal—first among all Opposition leaders—who highlighted the prime minister's degree issue and his crony capitalism as early as 2014. Rahul may have started attacking the PM, but he has nothing new to offer and no governance model to show even after many decades of Congress rule.

For the naysayers, AAP did contest and lose in Karnataka, but the party took this election as an organisation-building exercise. The people of Karnataka have chosen a lesser evil without a viable alternative. The '40% sarkara' has been voted out, and a '20% sarkara' will replace it.

It's an obvious fact that the 'copycat' Congress imitated the AAP's poll promises and gained an electoral advantage in Karnataka, but it needs to demonstrate honest intent and intellectual and financial acumen to deliver on those promises. And yes, 'AAP ne rajneeti badal di'. Because of the AAP, these parties are now forced to think of 'Aam Aadmis'.

Telangana politics

This is with reference to Cong to adopt K'taka strategy against BRS govt (May 23). The BJP's disaster in Karnataka and the Congress' success there have presented Telangana voters with crystal clear political options. The BRS, the BJP and the Congress are in direct competition with each other. If there is no roadmap for the development of the state from the BRS government, then voters will look at the Congress and BJP as viable political choices.

Unproductive work

Apropos of 2K note exchange begins today (May 23). The discontinuation of the ₹2,000 note and the deposit limit of ₹20,000 per visit will create unproductive work for the banking staff. It would have been prudent had the RBI decided to gradually reduce the circulation of this currency without a big announcement.

Effective audits

Apropos of When skies open up, danger and death lurk (May 23). Considering how callous and casual BBMP officials are and based on similar experiences in the past, it's not difficult to conclude what the fate of the present audit of underpasses will be. For the audit to be effective, the exercise should be carried out by independent auditors.

Underpass accident

The tragic death of a 22-year-old due to waterlogging in an underpass in Bengaluru occurred due to civic authorities' apathy. Pre-monsoon rain fury is an annual affair, so they should have been well prepared. It's high time they identify sensitive waterlogging-prone areas and install visible warning signs.

Strong opposition

This is a good time for the Karnataka Congress to prove its administration is without corruption. They should keep in mind the 2024 general election. A strong opposition is necessary at this crucial juncture. Good leadership and no internal fighting are very much needed now.

It is truly heartwarming to see V-P Jagdeep Dhankar in Kannur to meet his teacher. This shows our great Indian culture which always gives prominence to gurus. ‘Restore patrolling rights on Depsang’

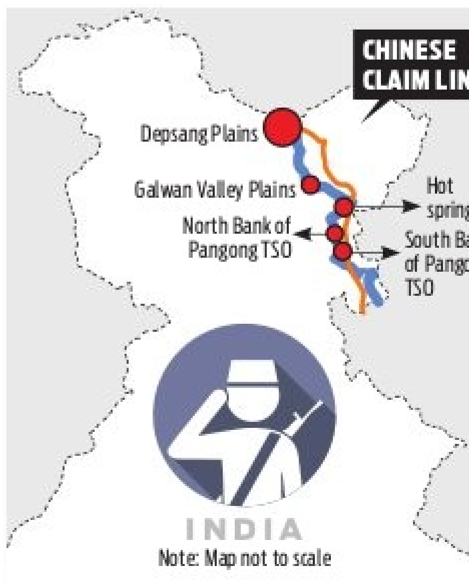
Talks must entail restoration of patrolling points that existed before Galwan clash: Army

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi



STRATEGICALLY CRUCIAL SECTOR

At Depsang, the Chinese have blocked access to patrolling points 10, 11, 11A, 12, and 13. The area out of access is said to be around

952 sq km

The terrain at Sub-Sector North, of which Depsang is a part, is such that large-scale armour operations is possible

China has multiple roads feeding the Depsang area while India has only one road

DEPSANG IS ALSO A LINK TO SIACHEN AND AN AIRFIELD

THE Indian Army has put its foot down over the restoration of patrolling rights as the talks between India and China are underway for troop disengagement in eastern Ladakh both at the diplomatic and military levels. Sources said on Tuesday that the Indian stance on the standoff points has remained consistent, i.e. restoration of status quo ante as on April 2020. “This entails the restoration of patrolling rights to the traditional patrolling points,” said multiple sources.

The 18th round of Senior Highest Military Commander Level (SHMCL) talks were conducted at the Chushul-Moldo meeting point, on the Chinese side, on April 23 this year.

The “friction” caused by the standoff between the ground forces of the Indian Army and the Chinese People’s Liberation Army (PLA) remains at two friction points of Depsang and Demchok.

The technical term for the corps commander talks is interactions at the Senior Highest Military Commander Level (SHMCL). Talks at the SHMCL levels took place for the first time on June 6, 2020.

The Indian side emphasized that the process of disengagement from Galwan, Gogra, Hotsprings and the north and south banks of Pangong Tso does not change India’s claim over the alignment of the LAC. “All disengagements carried out earlier also have been done on the basis of mutual security with no prejudice to LAC claims by either side,” said a source.

But the standoff at Depsang is of much significance where the Chinese troops have blocked access to five patrolling points (PPs) 10, 11, 11A, 12, and 13. The area out of access, as per the sources, is around 952 sq km.

The five PPs, which are located east of the strategic Sub-Sector North road, are close to the LAC, but not located right at the LAC but are located inside the line that marks the Indian territory.

The Sub-Sector North, of which Depsang is a part, is strategically most important. The terrain is such that a large-scale armour operation is possible. China has multiple roads feeding this area while India has only the DSDBO Road.

Depsang is also a link to Siachen and the Daulat beg Oldie (DBO) Airfield. The crucial Y Junction is about 20 km from the DBO. The PPs are patrolling points identified and marked on the LAC where regular patrolling is done to assert the claim about the LAC.

Tension prevails along the LAC in eastern Ladakh with more than 50, 000 soldiers from each side amassed with heavy equipment like missiles, artillery, and tanks with air power being kept ready.

Pak has no locus standi to talk on G20 in J&K: Shringla

YESHI SELI @Srinagar

Shikaras, decorated with lights, on the Dal Lake the day India hosted the G20 meet on tourism in Srinagar on Tuesday | ZAHOOR PUNJABI

PAKISTAN should be bothered about where it will get food from for its people, rather than where India can host its G20 events, says G20’s chief coordinator Harsh Vardhan Shringla in Srinagar on Tuesday.

“India has moved on and moved ahead and we are free to host any event in any part of India. Srinagar is no different. Pakistan should be concerned about the issues of food in their own country, besides they have no locus standi to comment on what we do in our country. The fact that there were five UN representatives among the delegates shows that Srinagar is considered an integral part of India,’’ Shringla said in response to Pakistan’s foreign minister Bilawal Bhutto’s comments objecting to hosting the G20 event in Kashmir.

The two-day G20 working group on tourism meet, held in Srinagar, went off seamlessly. “This has been the biggest foreign gathering in Srinagar so far. There were 59 delegates from 27 countries who revelled in the beauty of Kashmir. Peace, prosperity has returned to the valley and sponsored terrorism has nearly been wiped out. Schools and colleges are open all year through – these are big achievements for the state,” said Lieutenant Governor of Jammu and Kashmir, Manoj Sinha.

Jammu and Kashmir has identified 300 new places of tourist interests and are working on sprucing up infrastructure in the valley to accommodate more tourists. The projection for this year is 20 million tourists arrival in the Valley. “J&K will soon find its place in the top 50 destinations in the world and it will be on the travel bucket list of global travellers,’’ said LG Sinha.

Didi backs Kejriwal on Delhi ordinance, but Cong gets cold feet

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

WEST BENGAL Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday extended her party’s support to Delhi counterpart Arvind Kejriwal on the issue of Ordinance brought out by the Centre to regain control over appointment and transfer of bureaucrats in Delhi government. The Congress on the other hand appears to be divided on the issue as its state leaders are strongly opposed to any move to support the AAP on the issue.

After meeting Kejriwal and his Punjab chief minister Bhagwant Mann in Kolkata, Mamata said that her party would back the Delhi CM in his fight against the Central ordinance. She urged all Opposition parties to come together to defeat the Ordinance in the Rajya Sabha.

A shot in the arm for AAP

After meeting Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal and Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann in Kolkata, Mamata Banerjee said that her party would back the Delhi CM in his fight against the Central ordinance. She urged all Opposition parties to come together to defeat the Ordinance in the Rajya Sabha

The Ordinance has to be ratified by Parliament in six months. “We support AAP in the fight against the Central ordinance. I urge all parties not to vote for BJP’s law on controlling appointments in Delhi. This will be a semi-final before the 2024 elections.’’ said Banerjee during a press conference.

The AAP and the Centre are at loggerheads over an Ordinance promulgated by the Centre last week to create a National Capital Civil Service Authority to transfer and post bureaucrats in Delhi. Kejriwal has been seeking the support of all Opposition parties to oppose the ordinance, which he terms unconstitutional and usurps the powers of the Delhi government.

Kejriwal is scheduled to meet Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Uddhav Thackeray and NCP leader Sharad Pawar on Wednesday in Mumbai. Earlier, he had met Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar who has fully supported the party.

Though Nitish Kumar met Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge and senior leader Rahul Gandhi on the ongoing efforts to forge opposition unity, Congress is yet to pronounce its stand on the issue of the Ordinance, On Monday, AICC general secretary K C Venugopal said that the party will consult its state units and take a call on the issue. However, its state units appear to be not on the same page in backing the AAP.

Senior Congress leader from Punjab Partap Singh Bajwa, and Delhi leaders Ajay Maken and Sandeep Dikshit, took to social media and launched a scathing attack on the AAP.

In a lengthy Twitter post, former Union Minister Maken cited reasons, from administrative to legal and political, against supporting Kejriwal in his fight against the ordinance.

In 2nd assistance, India to provide 20 broad gauge locomotives to B’desh

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

MOVING forward on Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s ‘neighbourhood first’ policy and fulfilling a commitment, the Ministry of Railways will provide 20 broad gauge (BG) diesel locomotives to Bangladesh on Tuesday in a virtual ceremony here.

This will be the second assistance in the recent times to Bangladesh. In 2020, 10 BG diesel locomotives were provided to Bangladesh as part of India’s commitment to support Bangladesh in strengthening its railway connectivity.

According to sources, the handover ceremony of 20 BG diesel locomotives to Bangladesh will take place virtually from the Railway Ministry with the Bangladesh Ministry of Railway on Tuesday. Railway ministers of both the countries will be present on the occasion. Sources said all these 20 BG diesel locomotives are WMD3D type BG locomotive with a 3300 HP engine and designed to haul both the freights and the passengers’ trains at a speed of 120 kmph. Each of these 20 BG locomotives has a residual life of 28 years or more and are equipped with a microprocessors-based control system. Earlier, 40 BG locomotives were provided to Bangladesh between 2001 and 2014.

The Indian Railways had also exported 120 passenger coaches to Bangladesh in 2017-17. In 2022, when Prime Minister of Bangladesh Sheikh Hasina paid a state visit to India, leaders of both the countries had expressed their commitment for cooperation in railway.

During the meeting, a MoU between the Railway ministries of India and Bangladesh was also signed on training of Bangladesh railway personnel in India. An announcement on 20 BG locomotives to Bangladesh railway. was also made.

Quality test at govt labs mandatory for export of cough syrups from June

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FROM June 1, all cough syrup exporters will have to undertake mandatory testing of their products at specified government laboratories. The move came after three alerts were issued by the World Health Organization (WHO) in seven months on contaminated India-made cough syrups.

“The export of cough syrup-shall be permitted to be exported subject to export samples being tested and production of a certificate of analysis issued by any of the laboratories..., with effect from June 1, 2023,’’ the Directorate General of Foreign Trade (DGFT) said in a notification issued on Monday. The earmarked central government labs include Indian Pharmacopoeia Commission, Regional Drug Testing Lab (RDTL - Chandigarh), Central Drugs Lab (CDL -Kolkata), Central Drug Testing Lab (CDTL- Chennai, Hyderabad, Mumbai), RDTL(Guwahati) and the NABL (National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories) accredited drug testing labs of State governments. The pre-quality check of the cough syrups was taken as India’s image as the “pharmacy of the world” was getting a knocking following the WHO alerts on contaminated cough syrups.

Officials said this measure would help re-emphasise India’s commitment to assuring the quality of various exported pharmaceutical products.

India exported cough syrups worth $17.6 billion in 2022-23 against $17 billion in 2021-22.

Officials said they are taking necessary steps to ensure the smooth implementation of this testing requirement.

For this, the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare would partner with the state governments and the exporters. India-made cough syrups were allegedly linked to the deaths of 70 children in the Gambia and 18 children in Uzbekistan last year.

ROLE OF BMCs
BMCs or Biodiversity Management Committees have been formed all over India to document PBRs

2.77 lakh
BMCs have been constituted, so far

IN a step towards the documentation and preservation of India’s rich biological diversity, the Union government on Tuesday launched a national campaign for the updation and verification of People’s Biodiversity Registers (PBR).

A legal document containing comprehensive accounts on local bio-resources, PBRs are also created to record traditional knowledge and practices. The government also hopes these will be a milestone in biodiversity conservation.

PBRs are also India’s effort to save its resource from bio-piracy – known as scientific colonialism. In the absence of PBR-like documents, Indian products like neem, turmeric, tamarind, basmati, and Darjeeling tea were patented by foreign firms for commercial exploitation.

To protect the biopiracy, the UN agency, the World Intellectual Property Organization, formed an inter-governmental committee on intellectual property, genetic resources, traditional resources and folklore.

Under that agreement, India made the law’ Biodiversity Act 2002’ under which National Biodiversity Authority (NBA) was constituted. So far, NBA has constituted 2.77 lakh Biodiversity Management Committees (BMCs) across the country to document various aspects of biodiversity. This covers habitat conservation, preservation of land races, folk varieties and cultivars, domesticated stocks and breeds of animals, micro-organisms, and the accumulation of knowledge related to local biological diversity.

BMCs consist of the local elderly, farmers, pastoralists, teachers and students. Till now, BMCs have prepared around 2.67 lakh PBRs. “The objective of this campaign is to bring consistency and standardisation in all 2.67 lakh PBRs,” says Ashwini Kumar Choubey, Union Minister of State for Environment, Forest and Climate Change. “BMCs have documented in different formats, which we need to standardise it,” he said, while detailing on the progress in digitising PBRs, as well as transforming them into e-PBR.

The ministry has brought 5% of all states BMCs reports and members to Goa, who engaged in its preparation. They provided training to members on how to document it further.

Decision to benefit 20 lakh people months before assembly polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan at the event in Bhopal on Saturday | EXPRESS

MADHYA Pradesh CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Tuesday announced that the state government had decided to regularize unauthorized colonies in the state, where assembly polls are due later this year.

Speaking at an event on regularization of unauthorized colonies and associated civil infrastructure development and grant of building permissions, the CM added that necessary funds will be made available for development of these newly legalized colonies.

The decision is likely to benefit 20 lakh people, which may eventually strengthen ruling BJP's support base in the urban pockets, particularly in the colonies mushrooming on the outskirts of big cities.

"All arrangements related to infrastructure will be made. Along with water and electricity, other arrangements will be ensured. Development fees will not be charged from the poor residents of these colonies. The built houses will be accepted and given permission in the same condition," Chouhan said.

He, however, warned officials not to allow more illegal colonies to come up in the state With this development, the residents of newly-legalized colonies will be able to get bank loans and MLA and MPLAD Fund can be released for their benefit.

The CM said that resident associations should also be formed in the colonies. A public campaign should be started with the intention to ensure that the colonies do not lag behind in cleanliness, he added. The CM further asked all the urban bodies to provide necessary cooperation to the resident associations of the legalized colonies.

Addressing the event, Chouhan said that poor people coming to the city for work should be provided meals for Rs 5 under the Deendayal Rasoi Yojana. No person should sleep hungry in the state, he said.

Legalizing the unauthorized colonies constructed up to December 31, 2022 will benefit residents of another 2500 colonies.

Corruption to be main issue in MP polls: Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

UPBEAT over the victory in Karnataka, the Congress is now focusing to repeat the stellar performance in Madhya Pradesh, which goes to the polls by the year-end.

Two Congress leaders from the media wing, Pawan Khera and Supriya Shrinate held brainstorming sessions with party's state spokespersons in Bhopal on Tuesday. After the meeting, the two leaders said that corruption was the prime issue in the state. "The commission figure which was 40% in Karnataka, is higher in MP, maybe 50%-plus," they said.

"CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan has less to tell, but more to hide. Karnataka has proved that people will only vote those to power who talk about real public issues and push those into opposition who use diversionary tactics," they said.

"Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra last year has thrown up many public issues across the country. We dare the MP CM and his party to challenge us on those issues," said the leaders.

Cow politics in C'garh intensifies ahead of elections

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE obsession with cows in Indian politics is nothing new. In Chhattisgarh too, where the polls are scheduled later this year, the issue seems to have taken centre stage with the BJP targeting the Congress-led state government's flagship programme on gauthans (premises to house cows).

The leaders and cadres of the saffron party have launched a statewide campaign called 'Chalbo gauthan, kholbo pol' (Visit gauthan, expose irregularities).

It claimed that the implementation of the Gauthan scheme is not just in disarray but the programme is being run allegedly through fraudulent means by diverting the funds of Central schemes like MGNREGA and that of panchayats.

"It's a fraud being committed in the name of cows. The scale of corruption is around ₹1,300 crore," said Arun Sao, state BJP president, who led his party cadres to inspect such cattle shed units located in Mungeli district.

In Chhattisgarh, there are 8412 villages with such units operating under the Suraji Gaon Yojana, which is said to have given a boost to rural economic activities across the state.

BJP leaders claimed that they found the arrangement of water, fodder, sheds etc inadequate and that cows were missing in some of the gauthans.

The Congress denied the BJP's allegations, saying it was an attempt to defame the scheme aimed at serving the cows and had got universal appreciation.

"As the elections are approaching, the BJP has begun thinking about gauthans. What were they doing during the last three years when the programme had been initiated? They should better give constructive suggestions that we can follow and improve upon the working of gauthans," said Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel.

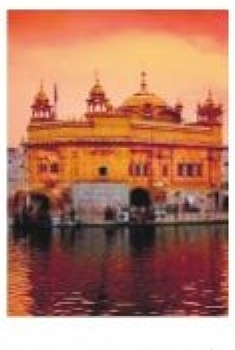
AAP in row with SGPC on telecast rights of gurbani from Golden Temple

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A new controversy has erupted involving the AAP-led Punjab government and the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee (SGPC) over the telecast rights of 'gurbani' every morning from Golden Temple in Amritsar.

SGPC chief Harjinder Singh Dhami said today that open tenders would soon be called for gurbani broadcast from Goldem Temple. He said that a five-member committee has been formed for this task, which will decide the terms and conditions.



Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann had on Monday hit out at the SGPC chief for extending the telecast rights of gurbani from the Golden Temple to only the Badals' TV channel, saying that the committee president is acting like a puppet in the hands of the Akalis.

Mann again raked up the issue in Sangrur. "Why is 'gurbani' being telecast by Badals' channel (an indication to the SAD leader Sukhbir Singh Badal's family)," he asked.

"If somebody speaks about freeing the Badals' hold on the telecast of gurbani, then it is considered interference in religious matters. But if the SGPC chief seeks votes for the SAD candidate in Jalandhar (the recent Lok Sabha bypoll), then it is a personal decision. The SGPC chief should think and respond after asking the Badals. I know you take all directions from them,"' said the CM.

Dhami accused Mann of playing politics over the issue. "The CM lacks knowledge about Sikh principle of Miri Piri (Sikh doctrine of a relationship between devotion and power).

Dhami said as per rules, since 1998, the SGPC had given the rights to broadcast gurbani from Golden Temple to various channels, under which the current agreement with G-Next Media Pvt Ltd (PTC Channel) is valid up to July 2023. The previous agreement was signed on July 24, 2012, for 11 years. After its expiration, a fresh process will be initiated.

He said under the ongoing agreement, G-Next Media had decided to give ₹1 crore annually to the education fund of SGPC. He said that a 'maryada' (conduct) is mandatory for the broadcasting of gurbani, due to which everyone cannot be given the right to broadcast it.

Varanasi court clubs 8 suits in Gyanvapi mosque case

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Varanasi District Court, on Tuesday, allowed consolidation of eight suits pending before it in relation to the Gyanvapi mosque dispute. Now, all those eight Gaynvpai-related suits will be heard together in the district judge's court.

The matter was posted for next hearing on July 7. Passing the order, Varanasi district judge Dr AK Vishwesha observed that the points raised for determination and the reliefs sought in all the cases were almost similar, so all the matters should be tried and consolidated together.

The Court also reiterated its earlier observation that if the cases remained pending in different courts, there was a possibility of contradictory orders being passed in them. They claimed that since all the suits were of similar nature, they should be tried together to save the time, money and to avoid legal challenges.

The district judge also acted in the wake of SC's order of November 11, 2022, wherein the apex court had empowered the district court judge to determine whether consolidation of similar suits was warranted if an application was made.

IIT student's body exhumed for autopsy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE body of an IIT-Kharagpur student was exhumed in Assam's Dibrugarh on Tuesday at the direction of the Calcutta High Court.

Faizan Ahmed (23), a 4th semester mechanical engineering student, was found dead in his hostel room on the IIT-Kharagpur premises on October 14 last year. The college authorities claimed Faizan died by suicide but his family alleged he was murdered. The family had earlier given its consent to the Calcutta High Court for the exhumation of the body for a second autopsy.

Some people expressed their anger before an IIT-Kharagpur official, who visited Dibrugarh, alleging the institute had been insensitive to the case all along. Faizan's father Salim Ahmed was hopeful about getting justice.

"We had filed a petition in the Calcutta High Court. We said Faizan was murdered. After hearing our plea, the court ordered a second post-mortem. They (IIT-Kharagpur) had shown the murder as suicide. The truth will now come out. We will get justice," Ahmed told journalists.

He sought the help of Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma, stating he would be happy if Sarma get involved in the matter. Arju Ahmed, a relative of Faizan, said the body was exhumed in the presence of a four-member West Bengal police team, local police personnel and forensic experts.

Decibel duress: 25 copter trips per hr for Char Dham yatra bad for hills

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

THE excessive noise of helicopters flying in large numbers daily for the convenience of "high-class pilgrims" to the Char Dham Yatra is having an adverse impact on the wildlife, school education and the environment of the area, experts say.

Helicopters operating from the Kedarghati helipad to Kedarnath are making more than 25 trips in an hour. Experts believe the flying of helicopters is not good for the health of the Himalayas.

Located at an altitude of 11,750 feet above sea level, Kedarnath Dham is surrounded by hills on three sides. In the ongoing pilgrimage to Char Dham, the state government has allowed seven aviation companies to ferry passengers via helicopter to Kedarnath. Also, the route from Kedarghati to Kedarnath is like a V-shaped narrow valley, which is prone to accidents.

Prof. Rakesh Kumar Maikhuri, head of the department of environmental sciences at Hemwati Nandan Bahuguna Central University, told this paper that helicopter flights flying below the prescribed standard altitude affect not only wildlife but also children's education.

Prof. Maikhuri has studied the impact of helicopter flights in some villages. "The sound of the helicopter distracts the animals and their milking volume process is also affected," he said.

"I also found in my study that the helicopter sound changed the behaviour of pets in villages. Other wild animals including horses and deer living in the wildlife area between Rambada and Kedarnath are disturbed by the sound," said Prof. Maikhuri. This was confirmed by the 'stool samples' of wild animals in the investigation. Environmentalist Jagat Singh 'Junglee' told this paper that the carbon dioxide that a helicopter emits during its flight has a big impact on the environment.

'Welcome to Kashmir': 1st day, 1st show on May 26

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THIS could be a measure of peace in the valley beset with terrorism for over three decades. Kashmiri filmmaker Tariq Bhat's Hindi movie Welcome to Kashmir would be released in Kashmir's only multiplex in Srinagar on May 26.

It is the first Hindi movie made in Kashmir by a Kashmiri filmmaker in over five decades.

The film, which has been shot in Kashmir, showcases the beauty of Kashmiri culture and features local artists in lead roles.

Vikas Dhar, the owner of the multiplex in Srinagar, told this paper that a Kashmiri filmmaker's movie will be released in the multiplex on May 26. The multiplex, which has three movie theatres with a seating capacity of 522 seats, was thrown open for the public last September. It is located in the highly secure Shivpora area of uptown Srinagar.

Vikas said the seats are already fully booked for the first show. "There will be two shows of the movie on May 26 (Friday). There has been a good response from the people. While the film has sold out tickets for the first show, people are now booking tickets for the second too," he said.

People are also buying tickets for the movie from the counters, he said. The main roles in the film have been played by actress Mateena Rajput and debutant Ahmad Shahab, both locals. A local Kashmiri singer and music composer Ishfaq Kawa has composed music for the film. According to director Tariq Bhat, Welcome to Kashmir is meant for the Valley.

"It depicts the Kashmiri culture and has Kashmiri artists, including singer Ishfaq Kawa. This is a Bollywood film and for the first time, all actors and technicians are from Kashmir. There is a song in Kashmiri (with subtitles) that features in the movie." The motive behind this film, he said, is to portray the real and positive image of Kashmir in Bollywood.

The movie focuses on issues confronting Kashmir such as drug addiction and women's empowerment. The movie will have three shows daily in the Srinagar multiplex after its release.

"The response to the movie will be good. It is our own film and we have to support it," Vikas said, adding that Welcome to Kashmir will attract local talents in the filmmaking industry. "We have got some beautiful and untold stories in Kashmir, which need to appear on the silver screen. It can be a trendsetter."

ATTACK ON RUSSIAN SOIL IN BELGOROD REPULSED, 70 DEAD

Moscow blamed it on Kyiv, which claimed it was an internal uprising from the military

KYIV

RUSSIAN troops and security forces quashed an alleged cross-border raid from Ukraine on Tuesday, claiming to have killed more than 70 attackers in a battle that lasted around 24 hours, a senior Moscow official said.

Moscow blamed the raid that began Monday on Ukrainian military saboteurs. Kyiv portrayed it as an uprising against the Kremlin by Russian partisans. The battle took place in the Belgorod region. Russian Defence Ministry spokesman Igor Konashenkov claimed the armed attackers were routed by local troops, air strikes and artillery.

"In the course of the counterterrorist operation, the nationalist formations were blocked and destroyed by air strikes and artillery fire," the Russian ministry said. "The remaining (fighters) were driven back to the territory of Ukraine, where they continued to be hit by fire until they were completely eliminated," it said. Four armoured combat vehicles and five pickup trucks used by the attackers were destroyed, he said. Local officials alleged drones and artillery were also used in the assault.

The governor of the Belgorod region, Vyacheslav Gladkov, said the raid targeted the rural area around the town of Graivoron, a town about five kilometres from the border. Twelve civilians were wounded in the attack, he said. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said Moscow needed to avoid further Ukrainian incursions into Russia and voiced "deep concern," calling for "more effort from us... so that this does not happen again."

Meanwhile, EU has supplied Ukraine with over 200,000 artillery shells and 1,000 missiles under a plan to rush urgently needed ammunition to Kyiv, the bloc's foreign policy chief said on Tuesday. Agencies

Gershkovich's pre-trial detention was due to expire on May 29 and the hearing in Moscow to extend the term was held behind closed doors. "The court granted the investigator's request to extend the... detention until August 30," RIA Novosti reported.

Cops search Portugal reservoir in Madeleine McCann case

SILVES

POLICE carried out new searches at a reservoir in Portugal on Tuesday connected to the disappearance of British toddler Madeleine McCann, who vanished from a resort in Algarve 16 years ago. AFP reporters on the scene of the remote Arade reservoir, around 50 kilometres from the Praia da Luz resort, saw police officers searching the bank along the dam with the help of a sniffer dog.

Two officers searched the water on board a fire department boat. German prosecutors confirmed the search was taking place but said they could not give further details "for tactical investigative reasons."

Portuguese police had announced on Monday evening that new searches would be carried out "in the next few days, at the request of the German authorities" and "in the presence of the English authorities." The steps were being taken with a view to "a total clarification of the situation." German police are assisting the Portuguese authorities, the German prosecutors said, while London's Metropolitan Police said it also had officers on the ground.

Madeleine McCann was three years old when she went missing from her family's holiday apartment in Praia da Luz in 2007 while her parents dined at a nearby tapas bar. Despite a huge international manhunt, no trace of her has been found and no one has been charged over her disappearance. German prosecutors revealed in June 2020 that they were investigating a German man, Christian Brueckner, in connection with the case, saying they had "concrete evidence" he killed Madeleine. Police already combed the site in 2008 but divers found only animal remains, according to media reports.

The area being searched was cordoned off on Tuesday and police had set up blue and white tents by the mass of water, set among wooded hills.

Police were monitoring access to the trails surrounding the Arade dam, built in the 1950s to irrigate agricultural land in the region. Madeleine's parents are not commenting due to the active investigation, as per an email response from the website set up for the search for the child, findmadeleine.com. Agencies

SAFETY ISSUES

Prince Harry's effort to pay for UK police protection fails

LONDON

PRINCE Harry has lost an attempt to challenge the UK government over his security arrangements while in the UK, according to a ruling published on Tuesday. Harry and his wife Meghan lost their UK taxpayer-paid protection when they quit frontline royal duties in 2020 and moved to North America.

The couple have their own private security team in the United States but Harry says they do not have adequate jurisdiction or access to UK intelligence to keep his family safe when they are in the UK.

The prince had been asking for a legal review of a decision refusing him permission to pay for the UK security himself.

Lawyers for the interior ministry argued that it was "not appropriate" for wealthy people to "buy" protective security when it had decided that it was not in the public interest for such protection to be paid for by the taxpayer. London's Metropolitan Police also opposed Harry's offer on the grounds that it would be wrong to "place officers in harm's way upon payment of a fee by a private individual."

In a ruling issued on Tuesday, London High Court judge Martin Chamberlain backed the interior ministry and police decision and refused Harry permission to challenge it in court. "I refuse permission to apply for judicial review," he said in a written judgment.

The case was argued last week on the same day Harry and Meghan sought cover from paparazzi in a New York police station after a spokesperson said they had been involved in a "near catastrophic car chase" with photographers. AP

ASIA MATTERS

WATCHES LINKED TO GAY PRIDE SEIZED

Swiss watchmaker Swatch said on Tuesday that Malaysian authorities raided its stores and confiscated 164 watches from its Pride Collection. It said Ministry of Home Affairs officials raided its outlets in various malls across Malaysia on May 13 and 14 and seized the watches because they "bore LGBT connotations." The watches come in a choice of six colours, matching those on the gay pride flag, and have two rainbow loops on their straps. "We strongly contest that our collection of watches using rainbow colors and having a message of peace and love could be harmful for whomever," Swatch Group CEO Nick Hayek Jr. said in a statement on Tuesday

7 KILLED AFTER SCHOOL'S ROOF COLLAPSES

Seven persons, including four children, died on Monday when strong winds from a rainstorm caused a metal roof on a school's activity centre to collapse in northern Thailand, officials said on Tuesday. The latest casualty was a 6-year-old boy who died late Monday night in a hospital after the collapse at the Wat Nern Por primary school, according to the public relations office in Phichit province, 300 kilometres north of Bangkok. Several students had gone inside the activity centre to shelter from the rain when the roof collapsed, according to a Facebook post from the official disaster prevention department.

Gold in demand on ₹2000 note withdrawal

Customers ready to pay premium, retailers asking for ₹5K-10K higher price on gold purchases with ₹2000 notes

DUMPING CASH FOR GOLD

₹5,000-₹10,000: Premium buyers ready to pay for gold with ₹2000 notes

₹60,200-₹60,500: Prices of 10 gram of gold in the country

Demand for gold has increased after announcement of withdrawal of ₹2000 notes

No rush was seen in bank branches to exchange/deposit ₹2000 notes

BANKS STARTED EXCHANGING/ DEPOSITING ₹2000 NOTES FROM TUESDAY

PEOPLE are ready to pay a premium to buy gold with ₹2,000 notes. Taking advantage of high demand, some jewellers are charging additional ₹5,000 to ₹10,000 per 10 gram of gold from buyers who want to get rid of their stash of ₹2,000 notes.

People with unaccounted cash have not much options left as the acceptability of ₹2,000 notes has also plunged with shopkeepers and other retailer refusing to take it.

Most gold buying with ₹2000 notes with a premium is taking place with jewellers in unorganised sector. Taking note such cases, industry bodies have already issued advisory to stay away from such practices.

"We have asked our members not to take any additional percentage, commission or charge any premium from the customers buying gold with ₹2000 notes. Jewellers who are not our members could be doing this, but not our members. There is small number of people in every trade who are involved in unethical practices and the authorities should take strong actions against them," B Muthu Venkatram, president, Coimbatore Jewellery Manufacturers Association told this newspaper.

"We have also issued advisory to our members regarding the information they should take from customers seeking to buy gold with ₹2000 notes," he added.

Taking lessons from the demonetisation announced in 2016, wary jewellers' bodies have asked their members to take utmost care while accepting ₹2000 from customers. As a precaution, jewellers are asking identity proof of customers, their source of income, noting serial numbers of notes and even taking photos in large scale transactions.

"Members are requested not to accept ₹2000 notes from their buyers for any premium," said a message sent by a jewellers association to its members on whatsapp group.

"If you do such transaction, take a photograph along with your buyer, take his ID proof, take his detail of income source, take a declaration to accept any enquiry, write the serial no of the ₹2000 notes in your tax invoice, take a declaration that no criminal or civil (case) was filed against your buyer in any court," it added.

Meanwhile, the banks across the country began to exchange and deposit ₹2000 notes from Tuesday. As expected, there was no rush to exchange the notes.

Branches were busy with customers in the first half of the day but the crowed faded as the day progressed. Banks asked customers to fill a form to exchange the currency.

SC panel finding, GQG investment push Adani m-cap by ₹1.5 lakh cr

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

A clean chit given by the Supreme Court-appointed six-member expert committee to Adani Group on charges of stock price manipulation and reports of investment firm-GQG Partners LLC increasing stake in Adani group companies pushed up the combined market capitalisation of the Ahmedabad-based conglomerate's 10-listed firms by about ₹1.48 lakh crore in just 2 sessions.

After Tuesday's rally where flagship Adani Enterprises share gained 13% and many other scrips hit their respective upper circuits, the Group's market value inched towards the ₹11 lakh crore mark. The same was ₹19.20 lakh crore on January 24 when Hindenburg Research had published its report. According to reports, US-based investor Rajiv Jain's GQG has raised its stake in billionaire Gautam Adani's group by about 10% and will take part in the conglomerate's future fundraising.

"Within five years, we would like to be one of the largest investors in Adani Group depending on the valuation, after the family," Jain, GQG's chief investment officer, said in an interview to Bloomberg. "We would certainly want to be partners in any of Adani Group's new offerings."

Jain added that the value of GQG's Adani holdings was close to $3.5 billion. He, however, didn't mention which companies he bought into or what part of the investment value came from direct purchases and rallies in Adani shares.

Earlier in March when Adani shares were bleeding because of the Hindenburg report, GQG had invested ₹15,446 crore into four Adani companies. The value of this investment now stands at about ₹25,515 crore.

Analysts have pointed out that the Supreme Court panel's findings have lifted investor confidence towards Adani shares. This combined with the group's asset monetization and fundraising plans is starting to wane allegations of malpractices.

"Reports of GQG increasing stake after a clean chit by the SC panel appears to be the primary reason behind the current rally. However, it is not like the stocks are undervalued even after correcting up to 70% this year," said a market analyst requesting anonymity.

Electric 2W sales to take hit as govt reduces subsidy

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

Cap on incentives comes down to 15% from 40%

Govt said the cap on incentives for e-2Ws will be 15% of ex-factory price of vehicles from 40% at present. Subsidy amount, currently pegged between `55,000-60,000 available, for top-selling models such as Ather 450X and the Ola S1 Pro, will be slashed by more than half

A sharp reduction in subsidy on electric two-wheelers (e2Ws) offered by the government under FAME 2 Scheme is expected to hamper sales and growth prospectus of the industry as per unit price of various models are set to go up by up to ₹35,000 from June 1, making them unaffordable for many.

"The sudden reduction in subsidy may lead to a major decline in electric vehicle (EV) adoption, impacting the entire industry for a considerable period of time," said Society of Manufacturers of Electric Vehicles (SMEV) director general Sohinder Gill on Tuesday.

He added that with the majority of petrol two-wheelers cost less than ₹1 lakh, a majority of consumers may not wish to spend upwards of ₹1.5 lakh just factoring in the total cost of ownership.

e2W sales are under pressure with total sales plummeting by double-digit figures in April when compared with March sales. "A gradual transition with sustained subsidies would have been ideal to ensure market growth and reach the international benchmark of 20% EV adoption (presently just 4.9%) before tapering off the subsidies to the customer," Gill noted. "In the larger context, this may lead to higher bills of crude oil imports and add to the ever-increasing air pollution in most of the Indian cities," he added.

According to a notification issued on May 21, the Ministry of Heavy Industries revised the FAME-II subsidy amount to ₹10,000 per kWh as against the earlier amount of ₹15,000 per kWh. The ministry noted that the cap on incentives for e-2Ws will be 15% of the ex-factory price of vehicles from 40% at present. Owing to this amendment, the subsidy amount, currently pegged between ₹55,000-60,000 available, for top-selling models such as Ather 450X and the Ola S1 Pro, will be slashed by more than half.

Ather 450X, which currently costs ₹172,000 (ex-showroom), gets FAME 2 subsidy of ₹55,000 and ₹18,300 state subsidy (in New Delhi). This brings down its on-road price to about ₹130,000. However, with the latest revision, Ather 450X will see a price hike of over ₹30,000, making the on-road price of the model a little over ₹160,000.

SRI LANKA

COUNTRY MUST ACHIEVE DEBT RESTRUCTURING BY SEPT, SAYS IMF

Cash-strapped Sri Lanka must achieve its debt restructuring process by September, IMF said on Tuesday. The global lender is reviewing the bailout facility it extended to the country. The IMF extended a nearly $3 billion bailout facility on March 20 to the debt-ridden country to so that the country can come out of the economic crisis it has been facing. The country is still struggling to normalise its crisis-hit economy after it declared its first-ever debt default in April last year. Sri Lankan President Ranil Wickremesinghe on Monday said Sri Lanka's debt restructuring programme will be completed by September this year. However, the global lenders have put some conditions for Sri Lanka for the bailout package. As per official data, the country's total debt stands at $83.6 billion, of which foreign debt amounts to $42.6 billion and domestic debt amounts to $42 billion.

ASIA

STOCKS TRADE MIXED AS US GOVT YET TO REACH DEBT DEAL

Asian stock markets traded mixed on Tuesday as talks on US government debt ended with no deal to avoid a potentially jarring default. Markets in Tokyo and Sydney gained, while Shanghai and Hong Kong declined. The Shanghai Composite Index tumbled 1.52% to 3,246.24 while Japan's Nikkei 225 gained 0.42% to 30,957.77. Hong Kong's Hang Seng shed 1.25% to 19,431.25. South Korean index Kosp jumped 0.41% to 2,567.55 and Sydney's S&P-ASX 200 remained falat at 7,259.90. New Zealand market declined while Singapore and Jakarta gained. Worries of a potential US debt default have added to investor unease about the health of the global economy. The S&P 500 increased to 4,192.63 on Monday, while the Dow Jones Industrial Average tumbled 0.4% to 33,286.58 and the Nasdaq composite rose 0.5% to 12,720.78. Stocks rallied last week on hopes for a deal but fell back Friday when negotiations hit a roadblock. Investors hope that the Federal Reserve will hold its key lending rate steady at its next meeting in June as inflation comes down.

PHILIPPINES

FITCH UPGRADES COUNTRY'S CREDIT OUTLOOK TO 'STABLE'

Global credit ratings agency Fitch Ratings has upgraded its credit outlook for the Philippines to 'stable' and affirmed the country's credit rating of 'BBB'. However, it revised the outlook on the Philippines's long-term foreign-currency issuer default rating (IDR) to 'stable' from 'negative'. The ratings agency is expecting the economy to rise above 6% over the medium term, stronger than the median 'BBB' growth rate of 3%. The country's debt-to-gross domestic product (GDP) ratio stood at 61% as of the first quarter of 2023, down from 63.5% in the same quarter last year. 'BBB' rating means default risk is low and the capacity for payment of financial commitments is considered adequate.

IT staffing industry sees degrowth of 6% in Q4

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

THE IT staffing industry has seen a gradual fall in demand following the second quarter and it intensified in the fourth quarter, leading to degrowth of 6% in FY23, said an Indian Staffing Federation report.

The annual Flexi Staffing Industry Employment Trend Report-2023, released on Tuesday, showed a drop in new employment generation in the IT Flexi Staffing sector, which mirrored the global slowdown in IT hiring and the ongoing process of employment right-sizing across markets. The industry has experienced a decline of 7.7% year-on-year (YoY). Developments such as the US markets, the Russia-Ukraine war, and the impact of global financial markets had a massive impact on the IT industry, said the report. The repercussions of these events have made firms take measures in order to align their capacity and focus on enhancing productivity to address market pressures, it said.

The report highlights the need for organisations to reassess their operations and adapt to the changing landscape. "This decline in IT staffing industry emphasises the importance of strategic planning and efficiency improvements to navigate the challenges imposed by the geopolitical scenario and meet the evolving demands of market," the report said.

The apex industry body, which represents the manpower outsourcing industry, said in its report that the industry experienced a double-digit growth of 14% YoY in FY23. Members of the Indian Staffing Federation collectively added 1.77 lakh new flexi jobs during this period. The surge in employment was notable in key sectors such as ecommerce, logistics, manufacturing, tourism and hospitality, FMCG, consumer durables and healthcare.

Women's participation in the flexi workforce continued to account for 24% in FY23. Suchita Dutta, executive director, Indian Staffing Federation, said, "Over the past financial year, Indian staffing industry provided a significant number of first-time entrants to the job market with their very first formal employment opportunity."

SpiceJet shares fall 19% on its 18th anniversary

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WHEN budget airline SpiceJet was celebrating its 18th anniversary on Tuesday, shares of the airline recorded a fresh 52-week low after plummeting over 19% to ₹22.65 apiece.

The stock is on a declining spree for the past six consecutive sessions and have shredded about 25% during the period. The stock settled 14% lower at ₹24.16 apiece as the airline continues to face financial headwinds and has undertaken a 'restructuring exercise' to further reduce the liabilities. On May 11, the airline said it has no plans to file for insolvency proceedings like Go First and has started the process of reviving its grounded fleet with $50 million. In a message to the staff, SpiceJet Chairman and MD Ajay Singh said as part of the airline's overall growth strategy, "a restructuring exercise is underway to further reduce the liability of the company".

Bourses asked to review Zee-Sony deal nod

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) has NSE and BSE to reconsider their approvals granted for the merger of Zee Entertainment and Sony Pictures Networks India.

The NCLT has asked BSE and NSE to issue updated no-objection certificates before the next hearing. The case will now be heard by a division bench led by judicial member HV Subba Rao and technical member Madhu Sinha on June 16. "Counsels of NSE and BSE have raised some fresh points relating to scheme of merger and placed the recent Sebi order dated 25.04.2023 on Shirpur Gold refinery for Bench's cognizance, where Zee Promoters' names appear in context of diversion of fund," noted the order. "The court hereby directs both NSE and BSE to review their earlier approval for Zee-Sony merger scheme and provide their fresh NOCs (No objection certificates) for the same before the next hearing date," it added. NCLT on May 11 directed exchanges to reassess and validate the non-compete clause of the merger, which was approved by the exchanges and Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi).

Earlier this month, Sebi had issued an adverse interim ruling against an entity of the Essel Group that founded Zee, which led to the NCLT directive. Sebi had asked the exchanges to review whether the payment method for the non-compete fee between two Mauritius entities complies with its guidelines.

Govt to release Digital India Act draft in first week of June

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government will release the draft of the Digital India Act (DIA) in the first week of June for consultation, said Minister of State for Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) Rajeev Chandrasekhar on Tuesday.

The Digital India Act, which will replace the Information Technology Act, 2000, proposes to regulate and safeguard users in the rapidly increasing internet economy in India. "India is soon going to have 1.3 billion people accessing the internet and these Digital Nagriks should approach the internet without any fear and mistrust, especially as many government services also move to the internet. A safe and trusted internet is a win-win for all stakeholders," said the minister of state IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar. He further said weaponisation of misinformation and disinformation is also a major concern that needs to be addressed, especially with the added catalyst of AI-driven 'deepfakes'.

IT services firms leverage generative AI capabilities for clients

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

MANY Indian IT services firms have started leveraging generative AI services for clients.

From IBM to Google and Microsoft, many global companies have already shared their AI plans. Following TCS' announcement of its new offering TCS Generative AI that leverages Google Cloud's generative AI services, Wipro too on Tuesday announced that it is expanding partnership with Google cloud to bring its advanced generative AI capabilities to clients across the globe. Wipro will integrate Google Cloud's full suite of generative AI products and services—including Vertex AI, Generative AI App Builder, and the Model Garden collection of foundation models—with its own AI intellectual property (IP), business accelerators, and pre-built industry solutions.

The expanded partnership will help unlock new value within enterprises and transform how large-scale businesses operate, Wipro said. Infosys announced the launch of Topaz, an AI-first set of services, solutions and platforms using generative AI technologies. Infosys Topaz leverages Infosys applied AI framework to build an AI-first core that empowers people to deliver cognitive solutions that accelerate value-creation.

Topaz democratises data and intelligence to bring value to more participants in the connected ecosystem, enabling them to create disruptive business models, AI-led products, services and new revenue streams, Infosys said.

Betting not legal, but tips on Insta reels for IPL matches gain followers

FIROZ MIRZA/SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

REMEMBER Sonu Jalan? In 2018, he was arrested by the Thane Anti Extortion Cell because of his direct links with an IPL betting racket. Know Sanjeev Chawla? He was one of the main actors behind the 2000 fixing scandal featuring a whole host of top cricketers including the late Hansie Cronje. These days, both Jalan and Chawla's names feature in Instagram reels. The reason? The users on the platform are using their names to get people to subscribe to Telegram channels where all sorts of betting and prediction activities do the rounds round the clock.

By and large, betting is illegal in India. The government has issued a number of advisories against online betting and restrictions on fantasy leagues. Yet, the number of followers each of these insta accounts indicate a different story. One Telegram group named after Jalan, just before the first qualifier got underway, sent a message to its 6,61,535 subscribers. "90p Gujarat Fav. Par Lena Start krna," the message said. "Gujarat match jitega."

Of course, others too are seemingly in on the business of using reels to promote their Telegram groups. One woman, who calls herself 'IPL KI QUEEN' as well as 'India's No 1 Lady Tipper', claims to have had 28 back-to-back successful predictions in last year's IPL in one of the reels. She continues with the theme in the caption of the reel. "Telegram ki sabse Badi LADY FIXER," she claims. "Listen," a voiceover says as the reel plays on screen. "Are you sick of losing again and again? Join my Telegram channel and win lots of money. I will make your life." This person has over 1,50,000 subscribers. Her tip for the qualifier, which landed at 7.45 PM, went against the other group. "Target Jo Bhi Bnega Jitegenge Chennai Wale. 25p Pr Book Set Jrur Bna Lena. Chennai Will This Match Each and Every Rate." The group also has a tagline they use to sign off. "Khelna Hai Bindas Kamana Hai Bindas."

The reel of another group claims to have a guy who brings in information from Canada. "Ye Banda Canada Toronto Se Report Lata Hai," the reel informs. The person's USP is 'Toronto Based Punjabi Tipper".

While one BCCI Anti-Corruption Unit (ACU) source remained coy when asked if they are aware of these reels, the reels themselves fall outside the purview of the ACU. "If gambling is happening somewhere, then the police will take care of it," the source said. "In a few foreign countries, gambling and betting are legal. The cops are very vigilant. They keep a tab on such people. Recently, Gujarat police cracked some cases. Punjab police also did the same. As the cops get clues, they share with us and do their best to curb such practices."

In another reel, a man, claiming to be 'England Don', says he predicted Gujarat would win last year's IPL before it began. "Bade bade cricketer saath uthna baithna hai iss bande ka (this guy has connections with big cricketers," is another of the many claims he makes.

However, the ACU source reassuringly adds that the IPL has been clean. "As far as the BCCI ACU unit is concerned, we are solely focussing on one thing; there should be no match-fixing. In March only, Sportradar Integrity Services issued its second annual report, wherein 13 competitive cricket matches came under the cloud of suspicion in 2022. None of those matches were played in India.

"For IPL, we engage services of some expert agencies which monitor betting trends during each match. They send me report on a daily basis. Till now, everything is clear.

"We have a very strict policy. We don't even allow owners to meet players in the playing area. Players are not allowed to have phones in the playing area. Besides, three-four ACU officials stay with a team. Last year during the IPL, we rounded off 20-25 suspects from the team hotel in Mumbai. Even those booking rooms inform us these days."

LSG aim to carve an identity & beat MI

GOMESH S @ Chennai

LSG will be determined to improve on last year's finish | SPORTZPICS

WHEN Lucknow Super Giants started the 2023 season, unlike Gujarat Titans and the other IPL teams, apart from winning the trophy, they had another task cut out for them. Trying to crave out an identity for themselves. The other newbie, Gujarat, had won the title in front of a packed home crowd the year before. Lucknow, on the other hand, hadn't played a game at their home venue till this year.

In Lucknow, they were playing on probably the toughest surface this season. For a batting line-up that thrives on hitting through the line and playing big shots, it felt weird. They won just three at home with one more game getting washed out due to rain. When they went on the road, LSG won five, finishing third in the table. However, for some reason, their approach and run in the lead up to the play-offs seem different than others.

There is a sense of randomness to their campaign; a factor that is often associated with the format itself. They don't have a batter in the top 18 run-scorers, none in the top-ten wicket-takers, lost their captain and their leading run-scorer from last year to injury, yet have pulled-off chases where they have no business getting across the line; managed to win eight games, including their last three in the league stages, to qualify for the play-offs.

How does one explain their success mantra — something that is regularly associated with Mumbai Indians and Chennai Super Kings and even Titans, who seemed to be following the latter's template — if at all they have one?

It is hard to pinpoint if they have a template. There seemed to be one when KL Rahul was playing where he took it slow and play long while the middle-order go gung-ho from ball one, but not after he got injured. Since then they have played a disruptive brand of cricket, which, at some level, has helped them. Some of their wins have been a bit random as well, with a bit of luck going their way — the wins at Hyderabad and Bengaluru for example.

However, that is not all of it. In Kyle Mayers, Marcus Stoinis and Nicholas Pooran they have found their protagonists who have bailed them out time and again. Three of them have scored more than 350 runs, with Pooran and Stoinis leading the way with their six-hitting. Both have hit 26 sixes each, often muscling their way on surfaces that weren't helpful for orthodox stroke-makers. Pooran, in particular, has been the show stealer as the southpaw's cameos this year has been an exhibition in modern-day T20 batting. If the ball is in his slot, the match-up is in his favour, he has made the most of it, irrespective of the situation.

There have been other supporting cast as well, including the stand-in skipper Krunal Pandya. In Lucknow, he has been close to unplayable and in other venues, he has done his job well enough to assist Ravi Bishnoi, their leading spinner. He has also shown promising signs in captaincy including some batting performances along with Ayush Badani. Someone has risen up to the occasion when needed — Mohsin Khan, Mark Wood, Stoinis, the list goes on. This is just about the cricket. With Gautam Gambhir as their mentor, there has been no dearth of drama when they play some teams.

Having said that, LSG once again find themselves in the position where they were last year — eliminator. They lost to RCB in 2022, and this year, they will be up against Mumbai Indians in Chennai on Wednesday. With the kind of campaign they have had, it is hard to say what they stand for. But as is often the case, history is written by winners. Can Lucknow get past where they were in 2022 to go all the way this time? We'll have the answer by the end of this week.

Ruturaj Gaikwad hit a 44-ball 60 to help Chennai Super Kings post 172/7 against Gujarat Titans in Qualifier 1 | ASHWIN PRASATH

TOP SHOW BY GAIKWAD

Opener slams fifty as CSK beat GT by 15 runs to enter final

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

RUTURAJ Gaikwad's half-century (60) and his 87-run stand for the first wicket with Devon Conway (40) helped Chennai Super Kings post 172/7 in 20 overs against Gujarat Titans in Qualifier 1 at the MA Chidambaram stadium here on Tuesday. That total proved to be enough as GT fell short of the target by 15 runs.

Gaikwad, who got an early reprieve thanks to a no ball from Darshan Nalkande, made the most of the opportunity. He used his feet well to play both the visitors' seamers and spinners with equitable ease. The right-hander restrained himself from playing his aerial shots and used the pace of the ball to score runs at will through deft placements. In the process, the Maharashtra batter scored his fourth fifty of the season.

With Conway, he started a bit cautiously, considering the number of wickets Mohammed Shami has taken in the powerplay this season. Meanwhile, at the other end, Nalkande surprised Gaikwad with some extra bounce and the CSK opener tried to hit it over mid-wicket only to be caught at long-on. It turned out to be a no ball and Gaikwad hit the free-hit over the ropes before following it up with a boundary. With CSK scoring 30 runs in the first four overs, Hardik Pandya brought on Rashid Khan and Noor Ahmad.

The duo negated the Afghan pair with ease, picking up singles and doubles while dispatching the bad balls to the ropes. While Gaikwad found the gaps with ease, Conway had some problems reading the guile of Noor who was able to extract some turn off the surface.

Gaikwad brought up his fifty as CSK seemed set for a big score after nine overs. In the combined five overs from Noor and Rashid, they had scored 46 runs without giving them any wicket. Pandya brought in Mohit Sharma, who has been part of the CSK before, and he delivered with the wicket of the CSK opener. He deceived Gaikwad who was looking to score runs with a quicker delivery that had a bit of extra bounce and was caught by David Miller at long-on.

Shivam Dube was promoted ahead of Ajinkya Rahane in order to counter the Gujarat spinners but was castled by a peach of a delivery from Noor. Rahane and Conway struggled to keep the momentum going as Pandya kept persisting with his attacking bowling options. Rahane holed out Nalkande at point, while Conway offered a regulation catch to Rashid at mid wicket with Shami picking up his first wicket.

Ravindra Jadeja came in at No 6, but he too could not shift gears immediately. Ambati Rayudu hit a quickfire 17 from nine balls. Once he got out, MS Dhoni walked to yet another massive cheer from the packed Chepauk crowd, but the CSK captain lasted only two balls.

In reply, GT were in the hunt until Shubman Gill, who scored 42 off 38 deliveries, was in the crease. But once he got out while trying to reduce the asking rate, it was always going to be a massive ask for GT. Rashid Khan hit a 16-ball 30, clearing the ropes twice but it was too little, too late as the defending champions were bowled out for 157 runs.

BRIEF SCORES

CSK 172/7 in 20 ovs (Gaikwad 60, Conway 40; Shami 2/28) bt GT 157 in 20 ovs (Gill 42, Rashid 30; Jadeja 2/18).

"The Indian contingent that will comprise of 46 members (11 Freestyle, 10 Greco Roman & 9 Women Wrestlers and 16 coaches & support staff) will take part in the event that is set to take place from 1st to 4th June 2023 and help wrestlers get crucial ranking points that is important for seeding at major competitions like the World Wrestling Championship that will be held in September this year. "The Union Government has approved the funding of over Rs. 82 lakh for the same which will cover their air travel, local transportation, food cost, boarding, and lodging cost among other expenses," added the statement.

ACTC meeting

Meanwhile, a source informed that the ad-hoc is scheduled to meet SAI on Wednesday for the ACTC (annual calendar for training and competition) meeting. "The now defunct Wrestling Federation of India had submitted the ACTC. The ad-hoc committee will meet the SAI officials for its approval on Wednesday. Once it is approved, there would be clarity over future events, training programmes and national camps," said the source.

The ad-hoc committee has to appoint a returning officer as well to make sure a new body is elected to run the WFI. A decision in this regard may be taken soon.

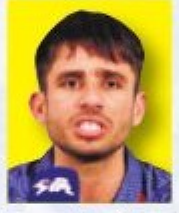
MUMBAI FACE GIANTS CHALLENGE

Mumbai Indians take on Lucknow Super Giants in the eliminator on Wednesday. A look...

CHAWLA THE TRUMP CARD

The last time Mumbai played at this venue, Piyush Chawla took 2/25 in his four overs against the home team. LSG has relied on their overseas trio — Marcus Stoinis, Nicholas Pooran and Quinton de Kock — to play the impact knocks. How they deal with Chawla in Chepauk could determine the fortunes.

SKY VS BISHNOI



Suryakumar Yadav might have started the IPL with a poor string of scores, but the real version is back. His failure in the league game played a crucial part in Mumbai's loss in Chennai. This time, they will expect SKY to stand up, taking on their lead spinner Ravi Bishnoi.

KRUNAL, THE SKIPPER

Since KL Rahul got injured, LSG are on the rise, with Krunal Pandya leading the pack. The batters are scoring at a quicker pace, often out-hitting the opponents, but more than anything the elder-Pandya, too, has shown his tactical nous and leadership skills on the field. Can he do it on Wednesday against his old team?

7 people arrested in Spain for racially abusing Vinicius

AP @ Madrid

SEVEN people accused of racially abusing Real Madrid player Vinicius Junior have been arrested in Spain, police said Tuesday. Three were detained in Valencia for alleged abuse against Vinicius in a Spanish league match on Sunday. Four were arrested in Madrid for allegedly hanging an effigy of the player off a highway bridge in January. The arrests come after an outpouring of support for Vinicius after he said he was abused in Valencia. The case prompted widespread reaction from sports figures and government officials in Spain and worldwide.

The nation has been criticized for its lack of action in racism cases in football. Brazilian government officials, including President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva, had publicly expressed their concerns. Vinicius has been subjected to repeated racist taunts since he arrived in Spain five years ago, and especially this season after he began celebrating his goals by dancing.

The Brazilian has heavily criticized Spanish soccer for not doing more to stop racism.

The match against Valencia was temporarily stopped after Vinicius said a fan behind one of the goals called him a monkey and made monkey gestures toward him. Vinicius considered leaving the field but eventually continued playing.

The effigy of Vinicius was hanged by the neck on the morning of a derby match between Real Madrid and Atletico Madrid in the Copa del Rey. Along with it was a banner with the words "Madrid hates Real." The perpetrators used a black figure with Vinicius' name on it, tied a rope around its neck and hanged it from an overpass while still dark in the Spanish capital. Police said three of those arrested belonged to one of Atletico's fan groups, and the other was a follower of the group. Some had prior bookings with police for other crimes. The hate message on the banner is often used by Atletico's hardcore fans, though at the time they denied being responsible for the display. The men arrested are between the ages of 19 and 24.

US Air Force on airmen look at a GBU-57 | AP

DUBAI: As tensions with Iran have escalated over its nuclear programme, the US military this month posted pictures of a powerful bomb designed to penetrate deep into the earth and destroy underground facilities that could be used to enrich uranium.

The US Air Force on May 2 released rare images of the weapon, the GBU-57, known as the "Massive Ordnance Penetrator." Then it took the photos down—apparently because the photographs revealed sensitive details about the weapon's composition and punch.

The publication of the photographs comes as Iran is making steady progress in constructing a nuclear facility that is likely beyond the range of the GBU-57, which is considered the US military last-ditch weapon to take out underground bunkers.

What do we know about US' Ordnance Penetrator?

The US developed the Massive Ordnance Penetrator in the 2000s as concerns grew over Iran hardening its nuclear sites by building them underground. The Air Force posted images of the bombs on Facebook page for Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri.

It is not the first time the Air Force has published photos and videos of the bomb that coincided with rising acrimony with Tehran over its nuclear program. In 2019, US military released a video of a B-2 bomber dropping two of the bombs.

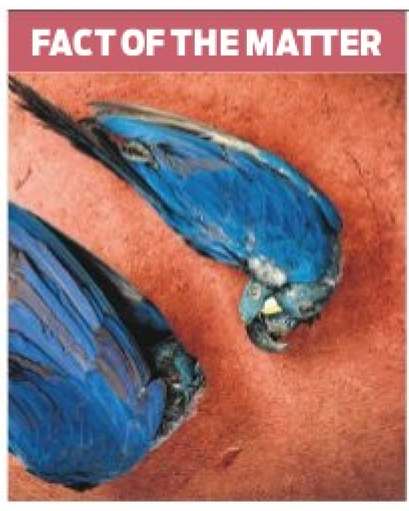
What did we learn from the photos?

The photos revealed stenciling on the bombs that listed their weight as 12,300 kg. It also described the bomb as carrying a mix of AFX-757—a standard explosive—and PBXN-114, a relatively new explosive compound, said Rahul Udoshi, a senior weapons analyst at Janes, an open-source intelligence firm. The Warzone, an Internet news site, first reported on the publication of the photographs. Within a day, the Facebook post vanished.

Tehran has been digging tunnels in the mountain near the Natanz nuclear site in Iran.

Experts say the size of the construction project indicates Iran likely would be able to use the underground facility to enrich uranium as well — not just to build centrifuges. Those tube-shaped centrifuges, arranged in large cascades of dozens of machines, rapidly spin uranium gas to enrich it. Additional machines would allow Iran to quickly enrich uranium under the mountain's protection.

FACT OF THE MATTER



Brazil's macaw vs wind farm

WILDLIFE

A wind farm in northeastern Brazil sounds like a welcome climate-friendly energy solution, but it is causing controversy over another kind of environmental worry: the impact on the endangered Lear's macaw. Home to more than 90% of Brazil's booming wind-power industry, the northeast is known for strong, steady winds that President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva wants to harness to power a green-energy revolution. But the project soon came under attack when it emerged that the enormous turbines, with their 120-metre diameter blades—a known threat to birds in flight—were being built in a nesting region for the Lear's macaw.

MEET & MOVE

Move aside coffee meets and brunch outings. B'lureans are now catching up over fitness sessions

MONIKA MONALISA

WHEN Varsha K (33) had to meet up with her two friends, she decided to do it either over a round of spinning on Infantry Road or a football practice session on Residency Road, activities she often takes part in. Varsha, an HR professional, says her friends and she didn't want to catch up over an 'unhealthy meal'. "So I thought why not go for a fitness session. It turned out to be more productive and fulfilling and if we wanted, we could always go for a healthy meal after that," says Varsha, for whom catching up with friends in this manner twice a week has become a routine affair.

Just like Varsha, Raman Kapoor also decided to take the fit way of meeting his friends. And for him, it was going on a trek. "When I say trek, I don't mean a high-octane trek, more like going to a hill on the outskirts of the city and walking up as much as you can. When we find a good spot, we just camp the whole night and return home the next morning. It's a nice way of meeting up because when you and your friends are in the wilderness, you have a deep sense of connection as at that point of time, it is only us who have each other's back. You won't feel such a connection when meeting up for a biryani or a drink," says Kapoor, who works in a fintech startup. Kapoor, along with three of his regular friends, plan these treks twice a month, depending on the weather. "We usually do like a Saturday night halt so that we can take a break from each other too. It is an economical way of meeting up too," he adds.

> When I say trek, I mean finding a good spot in a nearby hill, camping the night and returning home the next morning. When you and your friends are in the wilderness, you have a deep sense of connection
> Raman Kapoor, travel enthusiast

Many are also booking a good session of yoga as well. Yogesh Vyas invited one of his friends to such a session. "I used to go to a fitness centre which has many options like swimming and yoga. The catch up turned out to be fun. With a bunch of other friends, we met at a jacuzzi. This way I released you have new conversations as well," says Vyas, an operation manager in the city.

Photographer Rohith Sarcar picked a session of aerial yoga. "The first time I met my friend for a session of aerial yoga was for a photo session of her's and it turned out to be fun. So the next time I also went for one," says Sarcar. However, being a rugby player himself, his personal preference was meeting up for a run. " It can sometimes get boring to go for run or a jog alone. It is nice to have company rather than to plug in music," he adds.

Mixing the Perfect BLEND

To see if the pub capital of India agrees with Drinks International's 2023 Cocktail Report, CE speaks to various members of the food & beverage industry in Bengaluru

TUNIR BISWAS

AS soon as Drinks International released their 2023 Cocktail Report, Bengaluru, the pub capital of India, had its eyes on it discretely marking the differences. Classics like Negroni, Old Fashioned and Margarita topped the cocktail list while gin and tequila topped the spirits list. Incidentally, some of these toppers also happen to be among the city's favourites.

Justin Dias, head mixologist at RCB Bar & Café, feels it is always exciting for him to observe the preferences of bargoers worldwide. "While the landscape of cocktails is changing, classic cocktails hold a timeless appeal for a reason – their enduring recipes embody simplicity and elegance, often comprising just a few elements to produce a drink. As cocktail culture gains momentum in India, consumers are becoming increasingly adventurous in their choice of drinks, with a willingness to try new flavours and textures. Take the Lucciano Old Fashioned, for instance, where we have substituted sugar with hazelnut syrup for an added dimension of flavour. Another drink is the Curry Leaf Negroni, which pays homage to the vibrant flavours of South India. By infusing sweet vermouth with curry leaves, we introduce a unique twist to the world's most popular classic cocktail. Moreover, we have observed that infusing traditional cocktails with variations is a way to attract new drinkers," shares Dias.

Jones Elish, beverage head south – SOCIAL, believes that Negroni lately has taken over the orders. "Just like Negroni, Old Fashioned is making a comeback. Whiskey Sour is also hopping back on the trend. In terms of liquor, there is no doubt that gin is the talk of the town. In fact, people have been switching their preference to gin. Bars that used to have only three or four gins, now have over 40 different kinds. Tequila has always been there but Mezcal is adding to it right now. In the West it is already trending and I see that slowly coming towards South India," says Elish.

Daysie GM and mixologist Ravi Kumar believes tequila has taken a new form now. "Tequila was always famous as a shot but recently, it has become the go-to spirit for a cocktail or a long drink. The classics have remained famous. We have noticed anyone between the ages of 30 and 40 usually opt for Daiquiri, Margarita, Old Fashioned and Negroni," he says.

Rajasekar S, assistant beverage manager at Aloft Bengaluru, adds to the conversation saying, "The classic cocktails are great friends to me, particularly when I'm behind the bar table and I have to connect with the guests. Somehow you can never go wrong with those drinks, they make you comfortable and confident in front of the guests, and since the recipes are widely accepted, there are less chances of meeting someone who doesn't like them. But I like to add a twist to the classic cocktails before giving to the guests. However, I keep the base unchanged. I also try and give unique ingredients to my cocktails. It's not just a drink for me, it needs to tell a tale. A tale worth remembering."

Michael Antony Dias, the lead singer of the rock band Mad Orange Fireworks, recently released Chai Song

Chai pe cha-cha-cha

MONIKA MONALISA

LONGING to meet a friend, spend time, and share your feelings with them? Singer Michael Antony Dias' latest single Chai Song brings all these emotions in a musical format. Set in a waltz format, Dias calls it a 'longing sad love song'. Having written it a couple of years ago, the song is a part of his upcoming album Show Me What's Real. "I wrote it three years ago. It's coming out as a single, but it is part of my first solo album that's releasing soon. And this is the second single I chose to release," says Dias. The first single was released two months ago and is called Time Machine, which is available on all music platforms.

In the Chai Song, a cup of tea is placed as the most important prop, and the singer playfully mentions that the song was 'not written while sipping tea'. "The idea is about this longing to spend time with a person. It can just be as simple as that," explains Dias.

Being a guitarist, he naturally starts by composing a tune on that instrument. "I was just playing around with a few chords, and then the melody just came about. This song was pretty much written overnight," says the 36-year-old musician.

Trying to come up with a waltz-like feel, Dias says his personal inspiration was the English musician Sting. "A few songs by Sting have a very similar kind of sound. While I was working on this, I was listening to a lot of his music and that inspired me to take it in this direction," he adds.

Most of the song was recorded in Chennai over the last year. "I've been spending time recording this album. Joseph, a sound engineer is helping me produce the album. A musician called Fernandez played bass, and David Joseph played drums. All these guys have actually added to the whole thing and made it how it sounds now," he adds.

Dias is the lead singer of the city's popular rock band Mad Orange Fireworks, which is currently on break.

"I'm lucky to have discovered music at a very young age. I started guitar lessons at the age of nine and was hooked ever since then. I've played this instrument almost every day of my life ever since," says Dias, who is currently living in a small village in Goa, where the video of the song was shot.

WOMB TO THE WORLD

Through nine chapters, Dr Aruna Muralidhar's book Nine Months: The Journey Of A Lifetime, delves into the experience of pregnancy and provides a guide to learning about the journey of a lifetime

AMODINI BHAT

It's often said that a baby is carried inside you for nine months, in your arms for three years, and in your heart until the day you die. This journey of a child from the womb into the world has been captured in Dr Aruna Muralidhar's recently-released book, titled Nine Months: The Journey Of A Lifetime.

With over 20 years of experience as an obstetrician and gynaecologist, practising in both the UK and India, Dr Muralidhar decided to put all her expertise into this literary marvel. Acclaimed women in the field of gynaecology and obstetrician such as Dr Kamini Rao, Dr Sunanda Kulkarni, Dr Indira Reddy, and popular director Spoorthi Vishwas, among others were present at the launch.

The book looks into a diverse range of subjects, with intricate coverage of the processes involved in pregnancy. Dr Muralidhar says, "I started the research around 20 months ago when I thought I should make a comprehensive book about all aspects of pregnancy, although it took all my 47 years of experience to write it."

Through its nine chapters, the book covers topics of sensory development, shedding light on how an unborn child's senses develop and unfold within the womb. Recognising that the childbirth process involves the synergy of both men and women as couples, Dr Muralidhar intends to resonate with readers from all walks of life in layman's terms. One of the central ideas of the book was to bust myths and superstitious beliefs revolving around pregnancy. "In terms of pregnancy care, there are so many myths about the child being born as a girl or boy which I have tried to bust".

She also adds, "There were several misconceptions around the world about pregnancy which I found fascinating while I was doing research". The carefully-chosen title aptly captures the essence of the book. The author says, "I wanted the title to relate with every woman while encapsulating the journey from the womb to the world." Drawing upon her extensive medical expertise and personal experiences as a mother of two, she imparts a comprehensive understanding of expectant parents, medical professionals, and anyone seeking a deeper understanding of the journey of pregnancy.

The book intertwines Ayurvedic wisdom and the transformative path of maternity. Ancient practices and insights reveal a harmonious blend of nourishment, balance, and spiritual connection. Dr Muralidhar says, "There are many elements of Ayurveda that are very logical and can be relevant to this day, even though it does not have as much scientific backing. Although it took me a lot more time to research about it."

A SECOND-CLASS LIFE IN A TIER-ONE CITY

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon
(Writer, comedian)

Many things in the city were normal last week. A new government had assumed power, and people were negotiating the pros and cons of the new government without having voted. A few sunny days were followed by rains, making people snap pictures and upload them. RCB continued their legacy of bottling their chances of winning the IPL. For most, it was just another week in the 'ooru'.

But in other ways, the week was a disaster for the citizens. Two youngsters died in the flash-floods that were caused due to excessive rains. A man drowned in a drain that was overflooded due to the rains. And a 23-year-old IT employee drowned when her car was trapped in an underpass. Reports said that she had just gotten a job, and her family was visiting the city.

It is a fact that urban Indians have made peace with - that every city will have its problems. In the monsoons, memes and reels flood our phones about the rains in Mumbai. When discussing Kolkata, we speak of a city stagnant in its past. When someone returns from Delhi, we ask them how it feels to experience law-and-order, or to breathe clean air. And when discussing Bengaluru, we speak of the traffic, and the terrible state of the roads. The urban youth of India have turned to humour to mask our disappointments with the system.

And while humour has its own benefits, it also blinds us from seeking answers that we deserve. And herein lies the truth that we cloak under memes and gifs. That we are all second-class citizens in our own country. In our childhood, the word 'politician' was used as a slur. 'Don't play politics in class', our teachers would say, if we tried to sit next to our best friend. In movies, politicians were always portrayed as crooked and evil, permanently in cahoots with the gangsters and drug-peddlers who were trying to ruin the country.

But today, if a kid told me that they wanted to become a politician, I would nod in appreciation. For there are no two ways about it - to be a politician in today's times is a permanent upgrade. A premium subscription in life that ensures better amenities, and a system that works in clockwork precision. Do you remember the endings of movies by the director Shankar? Where the country is functioning perfectly after the hero alters society? That is the everyday life of a politician in the country.

It's funny how every app, every service we use comes with an option to seek help. We wait patiently and speak to strangers in customer care about our grievances with a food order. And yet, when it comes to our basic amenities - why do we settle for anything thrown our way? For years, Bengaluru's traffic has been a hindrance to its people. Governments come and go, churning up our emotions to garner votes. But somewhere deep within, the people of the city have decided that it is useless to hope for change.

I have been writing this column for a few years. Even in the darkest of times, there was something to smile about. So pardon me, Dear Reader, if this week's column does not bring a smile to your face. Consider it a silent prayer to the young lives that were lost, simply because the politicians of the city let them down. As a recognition to two families whose hearts will twist in pain every time 'Bengaluru' is mentioned. We will be back next week with minor grievances of life in a city. The inconvenience is sincerely regretted.

'TODAY CONTENT-BASED SUBJECTS REIGN SUPREME AT THE BOX OFFICE'

...says debutant Praveer Shetty, as he talks about his unwavering determination to pursue acting, the content-driven film Siren, being a Yash fan, and aspiring to follow the path of Rakshit Shetty and Rishab Shetty

A SHARADHAA

PRAVEER Shetty, son of KaRave activist Praveen Shetty, follows a different path from his father. Praveer always wanted to be an actor, and he fondly recalls how his childhood interests in skits, dance, and extracurricular activities, cemented his unwavering determination to pursue acting. Despite excelling in his studies and achieving good results, he courageously defied his father's wishes for him to become a doctor and instead chose the path of an actor aiming to create his mark on his own.

Expressing his admiration towards Yash for his magnetic charisma, and impeccable dialogue delivery, Praveer shares an incident. "I am an ardent fan of the Rocking Star. I vividly remember when Raja Hulli was released, I even coloured my hair, and that didn't sit well with my teacher, who insisted on meeting my father. During that time, she complained to my dad that I was straying down the wrong path and asked him to help me become disciplined, starting with getting my hair cut. He himself chopped off my hair. However, my passion for acting persisted," he says.

Understanding that acting requires more than just dreams, his father advised him to study acting before pursuing it as a career. Praveer realised the importance of research and formal education in the field. "I was sent to Anupam Kher School of Acting, where I learned the fundamental lessons of acting. While acting schools provide exposure, it ultimately depends on how you want to establish yourself as an actor," says the debutant, who also sought to familiarise himself with the atmosphere on film sets. "I had the opportunity to assist Nanda Kishore during the final stage schedule of Pogaru. Meanwhile, I was searching for the right kind of script for my debut, and director Raja Venkaiah, who has been part of the industry for the past two decades, and an erstwhile associate of director AR Murugadoss, came up with this compelling script. Siren not just marks my launch, but my director's too," says Praveer ahead of Siren's release this week.

The upcoming talent has created a checklist for himself, outlining his dos and don'ts. "I always aimed for content-driven subjects and never thought of being part of commercial potboilers or formulaic films. Siren fit my requirements, " says Praveer confidently. "The film is based on a true story and revolves around an IPS officer played by me, handling a rape case, which will be his first case. This incident took place in Andhra Pradesh, and director Raja, who conceived the plotline, has crafted an excellent narrative."

Prioritising content over commercial aspects, Praveer adds, "As an actor, I was not attracted to mainstream cinema. From my observations, content-based subjects are ruling the box office. I analysed that commercial films work only after you establish yourself as a hero. Content and real-based incidents create a significant impact on the silver screen. Similarly, Siren is also a story-driven film that will be accepted by the audience. I am confident in the director's choice to portray the film close to reality, and if audience connect with it, nothing can beat that."

How did Praveer Shetty go about approaching this character? "My father, being an activist, has maintained a good rapport with police officers. I sought permission from him and personally met a couple of officers, seeking their valuable suggestions and gaining insights into their work and problem-solving methods. I even underwent brief training to authentically portray a police officer's behavior. That's how I prepared for the character," shares Praveer, who feels that the best part of being an actor is the thorough preparation for a role. "The character involves dealing with a range of emotions, and the pressure becomes an exhilarating factor," he adds.

When two freshers —both director and actor, come together, what can be expected? "At the end of the day, it's the effort and ambition within you that matters. The director is highly motivated and has done an exceptional job. We have actually shown the film to a select group of people close to us, and everyone loved it, and we are expecting the best results," says Praveer.

Interestingly, Siren, made under the Deccan Kind Movie banner, was simultaneously shot in Kannada and Tamil and will be dubbed and released in other languages. "My first shot was in Kannada, followed by Tamil. Memorising the lines in the latter language proved to be quite challenging," reveals Praveer. When asked why he chose to go multilingual right from his first film, he explains, "The director wanted to present both native languages in a splendid manner. It did add pressure, but we managed. In the first week, we will release it in Kannada, followed by releases in other languages." The film starring Lasya as the female lead has music by Bharadwaj, and cinematography by Nagesh Acarya.

What next for Praveer? "I aspire to contribute my best to Kannada cinema and be a part of remarkable films. I admire actors like Rakshit Shetty and Rishab Shetty, who have achieved wonders with content-based films. I always seek good content, and language has never been a barrier," sums up Praveer.

Rebel Star Ambareesh's Antha to be re-released, on his birth anniversary

The iconic film directed by Rajendra Singh Babu will be converted from 35mm to 70mm with revamped sound and colouring

CE FEATURES

ANTHA, the 1981 super hit film, is making a comeback with advanced technology and will be re-released on May 26, to celebrate Rebel Star Ambareesh's 71st birth anniversary (May 29). "This classic should have been directed by someone else, but it came to me through journalist MB Singh," says producer Venugopal, who has bankrolled the film along with Maruthi, and KCN Chandrasekhar. It was later remade in Tamil and Hindi.

"The film has been remastered and converted from 35 mm to 70 mm, with revamped sound and colouring to suit the modern audience," shares producer Venugopal. Antha presented by Jayanna Films will be re-released in over 70 theatres across Karnataka, and director Rajendra Singh Babu expresses confidence in its reception.

"The film exceeded all expectations and became a phenomenal success during the time of its release. According to my knowledge, countless films have drawn inspiration from this masterpiece. It had gained popularity as a pan-India movie, with high demand in various languages. The true hero of the film, in my opinion, is the story itself. A good story always guarantees success," says the director.

The film features Lakshmi as the heroine and also stars Vajramuni, Sundarkrishna Aras, Musuri Krishnamurthy, and Prabhakar, among others. Filmed entirely in Mysore, the film has eighteen magnificent sets.

The Good, the Bad, the Ugly

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

RAHUL Bhat thinks of himself as a goat. No, he is not invoking a sports analogy and patting himself on the back. "I haven't been to a film school, so I don't know about the philosophy of acting and all that stuff," he says. "I am like a mountain goat. If need be, I'll climb a vertical wall. Don't ask me how I'll do it."

Rahul, after a decade-long sabbatical, returned and dug his hooves back into the craft with Anurag Kashyap's Ugly (2013), in which he played a haggard, single father whose daughter goes missing. Ten years later he is collaborating with the Raman Raghav 2.0 director again, this time for a titular role in Kennedy. The neo-noir thriller, which also stars Sunny Leone, will have its premiere in the Midnight Screenings section at the ongoing Cannes Film Festival. "It will be screened at the Grand Auditorium Lous Lumiere. I am excited to walk the red carpet. Going to your own film's screening is like going to war. Either you get slaughtered or the audience gives you a victory sign," says the actor.

Rahul reminisces about the time when Anurag gave him Kennedy's script. It was during the editing of Dobaaraa (2022), in which the actor had a brief, but amusing role. "I got the script during the Covid-19 pandemic. The whole world was falling apart. I was also going through a divorce. When I read Kennedy, I was already in a pit and it felt like somebody was shoving me deeper," he shares. "While reading the script, there came a part where I started crying and then I was laughing. I called Anurag, still laughing hysterically, and said, 'Ok, this is where you want to take me.'"

Kennedy revolves around an insomniac ex-cop, who is thought to be dead but still works for the corrupt system, looking for redemption. Rahul is a bit cagey when talking about the character. "Let's just say he is a killing machine, but not completely devoid of emotions," he says. "He walks and sits calmly. He is almost invisible but he has so much pent-up rage inside."

It was, at times, difficult to be with Kennedy. "I think more than the actor, the people around him suffer," he says. "You don't like this guy developing inside you. You try hard to submerge him in social situations. But, after two-three drinks, the jerk comes out. My closest friends still joke that they have lived and suffered with Kennedy for a year."

Rahul was born in Srinagar in a Kashmiri Pandit family. His mother was a homemaker and his father worked for the Accountants General office. "We stayed in Vichar Nag, a suburb of Srinagar. My great-grandfather was a zamindar there and my grandfather expanded his business. We were a well-known family in the area. I was 15 when migration happened and we came to Jammu. I have seen my friends get into militancy."

The love for acting bloomed early. Rahul states that he was part of plays in Kashmir and everybody in his family ("Even my distant cousins") knew he wanted to become an actor. "Just like every kid from a small town in India, my favourite was Amitabh Bachchan. 'Main aaj bhi gire huye paise nahi utaatha,' that sort of acting had filled up my mind."

At the young age of 19, Rahul arrived in Mumbai. He started off with modelling and did some advertisements. Finally, he got his break with the television soap Heena in 1998, in which he starred opposite Simone Singh. His theatrical debut Yeh Mohabbat Hai (2002) couldn't create a stir but his next Nayee Padosan, a romantic-comedy, was a decent land. "Heena was a TV superhit. Nayee Padosan had also worked. I was getting a lot of offers but by then, I had realised that I am a bad actor," he says.

19.20.21 at the Indo-German Film Week

The critically acclaimed film 19.20.21, directed by the Mansore, will grace the screen at the 12th edition of the Indo-German Film Week. This prestigious event will unfold from May 29 to June 7, showcasing the finest films at the iconic Babylon Theater in Berlin, Germany. The film revolves around a tribal community, dependent on a forest for sustenance, but deprived of basic necessities. Within this backdrop, Manju, a young and determined member of the community, emerges as a beacon of hope, bravely challenging the system and becoming the community's first college-educated individual.
